Women Shaping The South Creating And Confronting Change Southern Women:

Women Shaping the South Angela Boswell, Judith N. McArthur, 2006 Expanded from papers presented at the Sixth Southern Conference on Women's History this collection demonstrates how women of different races and classes transformed the South during its most crucial turning points including post Revolution Civil War Jim Crow era World War I and the civil rights movement Provided by publisher

Southern Black Women in the Modern Civil Rights Movement Bruce A. Glasrud, Merline Pitre, 2013-03-20 Normal 0 false false false EN USX NONEX NONE WINNER 2013 of the Liz Carpenter Award for Research in the History of Women presented by the Texas State Historical Association Throughout the South black women were crucial to the Civil Rights Movement serving as grassroots and organizational leaders They protested participated sat in mobilized created energized led particular efforts and served as bridge builders to the rest of the community Ignored at the time by white politicians and the media alike with few exceptions they worked behind the scenes to effect the changes all in the movement sought Until relatively recently historians too have largely ignored their efforts Although African American women mobilized all across Dixie their particular strategies took different forms in different states just as the opposition they faced from white segregationists took different shapes Studies of what happened at the state and local levels are critical not only because of what black women accomplished but also because their activism leadership and courage demonstrated the militancy needed for a mass movement In this volume scholars address similarities and variations by providing case studies of the individual states during the 1950s and 1960s laying the groundwork for more synthetic analyses of the circumstances factors and strategies used by black women in the former Confederate states to destroy the system of segregation in this country

The Sweetness of Life Eugene D. Genovese, 2017-10-05 This book examines the home and leisure life of planters in the antebellum American South Based on a lifetime of research by the late Eugene Genovese 1930 2012 with an introduction and epilogue by Douglas Ambrose The Sweetness of Life presents a penetrating study of slaveholders and their families in both intimate and domestic settings at home attending the theatre going on vacations to spas and springs throwing parties hunting gambling drinking and entertaining guests completing a comprehensive portrait of the slaveholders and the world that they built with slaves Genovese subtly but powerfully demonstrates how much politics economics and religion shaped informed and made possible these leisure activities A fascinating investigation of a little studied aspect of planter life The Sweetness of Life broadens our understanding of the world that the slaveholders and their slaves made a tragic world of both sweetness and slavery

The U.S. South and Europe Cornelis A. van Minnen, Manfred Berg, 2013-11-28 The U S South is a distinctive political and cultural force not only in the eyes of Americans but also in the estimation of many Europeans The region played a distinctive role as a major agricultural center and the source of much of the wealth in early America but it has also served as a catalyst for the nation's only civil war and later as a battleground in violent civil rights conflicts Once considered isolated and benighted by the international community the South has recently evoked considerable interest among popular audiences and academic observers on both sides of the Atlantic In The U S South and Europe editors Cornelis A van Minnen and Manfred Berg have assembled contributions that interpret a number of political cultural and religious aspects of the transatlantic relationship during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The contributors discuss a variety of subjects including European colonization travel accounts of southerners visiting Europe and the experiences of German immigrants who settled in the South The collection also examines slavery foreign recognition of the Confederacy as a sovereign government the lynching of African Americans and Italian immigrants and transatlantic religious fundamentalism Finally it addresses international perceptions of the Jim Crow South and the civil rights movement as a framework for understanding race relations in the United Kingdom after World War II Featuring contributions from leading scholars based in the United States and Europe this illuminating volume explores the South from an international perspective and offers a new context from which to consider the region s history

Sojourning for Freedom Erik S. McDuffie, 2011-06-27 Illuminates a pathbreaking black radical feminist politics forged by black women leftists active in the U S Communist Party between its founding in 1919 and its demise in the 1950s

Family, Law, and Inheritance in America Yvonne Pitts, 2013-05-20 Yvonne Pitts explores nineteenth century inheritance practices by focusing on testamentary capacity trials in Kentucky in which disinherited family members challenged relatives wills claiming the testator lacked the capacity required to write a valid will By anchoring the study in the history of local communities and the texts of elite jurists Pitts demonstrates that capacity was a term laden with legal meaning and competing communal values

Black Woman Reformer Sarah Silkey, 2015-02-15 During the early 1890s a series of shocking lynchings brought unprecedented international attention to American mob violence This interest created an opportunity for Ida B Wells an African American journalist and civil rights activist from Memphis to travel to England to cultivate British moral indignation against American lynching Wells adapted race and gender roles established by African American abolitionists in Britain to legitimate her activism as a black lady reformer a role American society denied her and assert her right to defend her race from abroad Based on extensive archival research conducted in the United States and Britain Black Woman Reformer by Sarah Silkey explores Wells s 1893-94 antilynching campaigns within the broader contexts of nineteenth century transatlantic reform networks and debates about the role of extralegal violence in American society Through her speaking engagements newspaper interviews and the efforts of her British allies Wells altered the framework of public debates on lynching in both Britain and the United States No longer content to view lynching as a benign form of frontier justice Britons accepted Wells s assertion that lynching was a racially motivated act of brutality designed to enforce white supremacy As British criticism of lynching mounted southern political leaders desperate to maintain positive relations with potential foreign investors were forced to choose whether to publicly defend or decry lynching Although British moral pressure and media attention did not end lynching the international scrutiny generated by Wells s campaigns transformed

our understanding of racial violence and made American communities increasingly reluctant to embrace lynching

Radicalism at the Crossroads Dayo F. Gore, 2012-10-01 With the exception of a few iconic moments such as Rosa Parks's 1955 refusal to move to the back of a Montgomery bus we hear little about what black women activists did prior to 1960. Perhaps this gap is due to the severe repression that radicals of any color in America faced as early as the 1930s and into the Red Scare of the 1950s. To be radical and black and a woman was to be forced to the margins and consequently these women's stories have been deeply buried and all but forgotten by the general public and historians alike. In this exciting work of historical recovery Dayo F. Gore unearths and examines a dynamic extended network of black radical women during the early Cold War including established Communist Party activists such as Claudia Jones and artists and writers such as Beulah Richardson and lesser known organizers such as Vicki Garvin and Thelma Dale. These women were part of a black left that laid much of the groundwork for both the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960s and later strains of black radicalism. Radicalism at the Crossroads offers a sustained and in depth analysis of the political thought and activism of black women radicals during the Cold War period and adds a new dimension to our understanding of this tumultuous time in United States history.

Sisterly Networks Catherine Clinton, 2020-10-06 Tracing the development of the field of southern women's history over the past half century Sisterly Networks shows how pioneering feminists laid the foundation for a strong community of sister scholars and delves into the work of an organization central to this movement the Southern Association for Women Historians (SAWH). Launched in 1970 the SAWH provided programming mentoring fundraising and outreach efforts to support women historians working to challenge the academic establishment. In this book leading scholars reflect on their own careers in southern history and their experiences as women historians amid this pathbreaking expansion and revitalization of the field. Their stories demonstrate how women created new archival collections expanded historical categories to include gender and sexuality reimagined the roles and significance of historical women wrote pioneering monographs and mentored future generations of African American women and other minorities who entered the academy and contributed to public discourse. Providing a lively roundtable discussion of the state of the field contributors comment on present and future work environments and current challenges in higher education and academic publishing. They offer profound and provocative insights on the ways scholars can change the future through radically rewriting the gender biases of recorded history. Contributors: Catherine Clinton Michele Gillespie Glenda E. Gilmore Cherrisse Jones Branch Melissa Walker. A volume in the series Frontiers of the American South edited by William A. Link. No Depression in Heaven Alison Collis Greene, 2016 A study of the inability of the churches to deal with the crisis of the Great Depression and the shift from church based aid to a federal welfare state.
