Finin,Steven Willmott,2006-03-30 There is a growing interest in the use of ontologies for multi agent system applications On the one hand the agent paradigm is successfully employed in those applications where autonomous loosely coupled heterogeneous and distributed systems need to interoperate in order to achieve a common goal On the other hand ontologies have established themselves as a powerful tool to enable knowledge sharing and a growing number of applications have benefited from the use of ontologies as a means to achieve semantic interoperability among heterogeneous distributed systems In principle ontologies and agents are a match made in heaven that has failed to happen What makes a simple piece of software an agent is its ability to communicate in a social environment to make autonomous decisions and to be proactive on behalf of its user Communication ultimately depends on understanding the goals preferences and constraints posed by the user Autonomy is the ability to perform a task with little or no user intervention while proactiveness involves acting autonomously with no need for user prompting Communication but also autonomy and proactiveness depend on knowledge The ability to communicate

depends on understanding the syntax terms and structure and the semantics of a language Ontologies provide the terms used to describe a domain and the semantics associated with them In addition ontologies are often complemented by some logical rules that constrain the meaning assigned to the terms These constraints are represented by inference rules that can be used by agents to perform the reasoning on which autonomy and proactiveness are based Automatic and Semi-automatic Gearboxes for Heavy Commercial Vehicles ,1978 Hillier's Fundamentals of Motor Vehicle Technology Victor Albert Walter Hillier,Peter Coombes,2004 Significantly updated to cover the latest technological developments and include latest techniques and practices Reducing the costs for procuring fire and rescue service vehicles and specialist equipment Great Britain: National Audit Office,2010-07-23 Firebuy a specialist body established by the Department for Communities and Local Government to support procurement of kit by Fire and Rescue Services has cost nearly twice as much to set up and run as the total savings it claims to have delivered Without the power to make local Fire and Rescue Services use its national procurement contracts Firebuy has had to rely on persuasion Progress has therefore been slow with only five out of the 14 framework contracts it has set up being used by more than half Fire and Rescue Services to purchase equipment Most of the contracts allow suppliers to offer many variations of the same types of equipment allowing Fire and Rescue Services to procure expensive bespoke equipment and preventing suppliers offering lower prices through high volume orders The approach to measuring savings achieved by Firebuy is inadequate and the information that the estimated savings are based on is mostly unreliable The Department expected Firebuy to be self financing by its third year of operation 2008 09 but it is still heavily reliant on grants from the Department Firebuy is expensive to run with overheads between five per cent and 10 per cent higher than the industry norm The Department has not shown enough leadership direction or oversight of Firebuy to ensure it achieved its original objectives most of which were not monitored only 29 of 66 targets were monitored and many were not met
