

A silver-colored metal engine block, likely an aluminum alloy, is shown from a side-on perspective. It features a complex design with various ports, a cooling fan shroud on the right side, and a black timing belt cover at the bottom. A white label with black text is attached to the top of the block. The engine is resting on a white surface with red lines, possibly a display stand or workbench. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.
