book examines both the rights oriented and public health perspectives on child labour A rights approach ensures that exploitative and abusive work is considered not just in terms of a labour market or health rights approach but also in terms of human dignity and the solutions that preserve the rights of children and communities The public health approach is steeped in the relationship between individuals and their community seeking to identify how the presence or absence of government programmes and policies affects those involved The economics perspective is also presented early in the book to aid understanding of the causes and consequences of child labour before the alternate public health and sociological views are presented The editors examine factors such as poverty malnutrition social disadvantage gender globalisation and education and look at both physical and psychological threats This book will be of use to academics and students involved in health health policy social sciences and development disciplines Those actively involved public health initiatives such as policy makers and non governmental organisations will also find this an invaluable resource Understanding Childhood Heather Kate Montgomery, Martin Woodhead, 2003 Qualitative Research for Allied Health Professionals Linda Finlay, Claire Ballinger, 2006-03-31 This practical text addresses a gap in the literature by mapping the links between philosophy research method and practice in an accessible readable way It offers guidance to allied health professionals increasingly involved in research as the emphasis grows on evidence based practice on how to engage in meaningful good quality qualitative research To help researchers take on this challenge the book highlights some of the choices involved in carrying out qualitative research offers a wide range of practical examples to show how different ways of doing qualitative research can be managed critically examines a variety of qualitative research methodologies of particular interest to allied health professionals clarifies the links between epistemology methodology and method The book is structured in three parts Part I sensitises readers to the complex issues which challenge qualitative researchers at the planning stage of their projects In Part II the challenge of using different methodologies is critically explored by fifteen authors who describe their individual research experiences Part III examines the choices researchers make when they evaluate and present research

Families and Households in Post-apartheid South Africa Acheampong Yaw Amoateng, Tim B. Heaton, 2007 Prior to South Africa's democratic transition in 1994 studies of families and households were limited by the structure of apartheid and the lack of adequate social and economic data Large social changes since that time have had a profound effect on public policy planning and service delivery and this monograph takes a new look at the lingering effects of colonialism and apartheid on South African families as well as their economic gains Experts from the fields of demographics economics psychology and sociology report their findings on living arrangements across rural and urban divides on access to toilets electricity water and housing on rates of marriage and divorce on fertility and infant mortality and on the housework and other chores performed by children

Strong Foundations Unesco, 2006 This report the fifth in the series examines the progress towards achieving the six Education for All EFA goals set at the World Education Forum in Dakar in 2000 focusing on the provision of comprehensive early childhood care and education particularly for the most disadvantaged children Programmes that support young children during the years before they go to primary school encompassing care health and nutrition issues as well as education are crucial to establishing strong foundations for subsequent learning and development The report finds that demand for early education and care is expanding rapidly spurred on by higher numbers of women in the labour market and more single parent households However young children in greatest need who also stand to benefit the most are unlikely to have access to early years programmes with coverage remaining very low in most developing countries Participation in pre school services ranges from 62 per cent in Latin America and the Caribbean to 35 per cent in developing countries of East Asia and the Pacific 32 per cent in South and West Asia 16 per cent in the Arab States and 12 per cent in Sub Saharan Africa In comparison pre school provision is almost universal in most Western European countries and although enrolments fell sharply in transition countries following the break up of the Soviet Union they are now recovering Although there has been considerable progress made in other aspects of the EFA goals particularly in relation to universal primary education more girls attending schools and an increase in international aid for education the report highlights the major challenges that remain if the six EFA goals are to be met by 2015
