Medieval Islam Gustave E. von Grunebaum,2010-01-15 From the Preface This book has grown out of a series of public lectures delivered in the spring of 1945 in the Division of the Humanities of the University of Chicago It proposes to outline the cultural orientation of the Muslim Middle Ages with eastern Islam as the center of attention It attempts to characterize the medieval Muslim's view of himself and his peculiarly defined universe the fundamental intellectual and emotional attitudes that governed his works and the mood in which he lived his life It strives to explain the structure of his universe in terms of inherited borrowed and original elements the institutional framework within which it functioned and its place in relation to the contemporary Christian world A consideration of the various fields of cultural activity requires an analysis of the dominant interest the intentions and to some extent the methods of reasoning with which the Muslim approached his special subjects and to which achievement and limitations of achievement are due Achievements referred to or personalities discussed will never be introduced for their own sake let alone for the sake of listing the sum total of this civilization's major contributions They are dealt with rather to evidence the peculiar ways in which the Muslim essayed to understand and to organize his world The plan of the book thus rules out the narration of political history beyond the barest skeleton but it requires the ascertaining of the exact position of Islam in the medieval world and its significance This plan also excludes a study of Muslim economy but it leads to an interpretation of the social structure as molded by the prime loyalties cherished by the Muslim The Oxford Handbook of Mystical Theology Edward Howells,Mark A. McIntosh,2020-02-25 The Oxford Handbook of Mystical Theology provides a guide to the mystical element of Christianity as a theological phenomenon It differs not only from psychological and anthropological studies of mysticism but from other theological studies such as more practical or pastorally oriented works that examine the patterns of spiritual progress and offer counsel for deeper understanding and spiritual development. It also differs from more explicitly historical studies tracing the theological and philosophical contexts and ideas of various key figures and schools as well as from literary studies of the linguistic tropes and expressive forms in mystical texts. None of these perspectives is absent but the method here is more deliberately theological, working from within the fundamental interests of Christian mystical writers to the articulation of those interests in distinctively theological forms in order finally to permit a critical theological engagement with them for today. Divided into four parts, the first section introduces the approach to mystical theology and offers a historical overview. Part two attends to the concrete context of sources and practices of mystical theology. Part three moves to the fundamental conceptualities of mystical thought. The final section ends with the central contributions of mystical teaching to theology and metaphysics. Students and scholars with a variety of interests will find different pathways through the Handbook.

SOULS FOR SALE THE DIARY OF AN EX COLORED MAN is a riveting portrayal of a second generation advocate's experience in the post civil rights era of the 1980s. Anthony Asadullah Samad offers this retrospect through the eyes of a young advocate's effort to give back to his community when he takes up membership in the local branch of the NAACP. As a lead official of the Los Angeles NAACP Vice President 1985-88, President 1988-89, Samad, whose name was Anthony Essex at the time, discovered that the progressive civil rights agenda has been supplanted by inner race conflict and leadership succession battles within the organization and a cultural compromise that came with the Reagan era social and economic reconstruction. 1981-1988 Samad is currently the host of the Urban Issues Forum of Greater Los Angeles, a monthly public affairs forum that discusses critical issues impacting American's urban cities.
