Unconditional Good News Towards An Understanding Of Biblical Universalism:

The Annihilation of Hell Nicholas Ansell, 2014-07-08 This work analyses and evaluates Jurgen Moltmann's model of universal salvation and its relation to his understanding of the redemption or eschatological fulfilment of time. For Jurgen Moltmann, Hell is the nemesis of Hope. The Annihilation of Hell thus refers both to Hell's annihilative power in history and to the overcoming of that power as envisioned by Moltmann's distinctive theology of the cross in which God becomes all in all through Christ's descent into Godforsakenness. The negation of Hell and the fulfilment of history are inseparable. Attentive to the overall contours and dynamics of Moltmann's thinking, especially his zimzum doctrine of creation, his eschatologically oriented philosophy of time, and his expanded understanding of the nature-grace relationship, this study asks whether the universal salvation that he proposes can honour human freedom, promise vindication for those who suffer, and do justice to biblical revelation. As well as providing an in-depth exposition of Moltmann's ideas, The Annihilation of Hell also explores how a covenantal universalism might revitalise our web of beliefs in a way that is attuned to the authorising of Scripture and the spirituality of existence. If divine and human freedom are to be reconciled as Moltmann believes, the confrontation between Hell and hope will entail rethinking issues that are not only at the centre of theology but at the heart of life itself. Jay Harold Ellens, 2016-11-10 Psychology and theology interface at four levels: theory development, research process, data collection, and clinical operation. At each level, they connect in the model of humanness: anthropology forming and functioning there, and in that model of humanness, it is in personality theory that psychology illumines theology, and that psychology illumines theology. A theologian who does not take full advantage of the way psychology illumines theology is not serious about the work of theology. A psychologist who does not take full advantage of the way theology illumines psychology is not serious about the field and practice of psychology. Science, Religion, and Health explains in readable style how that interface and mutual illumination works, and why it is crucial for Christian psychotherapists and pastors. Satan and the Problem of Evil

Gregory A. Boyd, 2025-08-04 Where does evil come from? If there is a sovereign creator God, as Christian faith holds, is this God ultimately responsible for evil? Does God's sovereignty mean that God causes each instance of sin and suffering? How do Satan, his demons, and hell fit into God's providential oversight of all creation and history? How does God interact with human intention and action? If people act freely, does God know in particular every human decision before the choice is made? In this important book, Gregory A. Boyd mounts a thorough response to these age-old questions which remain both crucial and contentious, both practical and complex. In this work, Boyd defends his scripturally grounded trinitarian warfare theodicy presented in God at War with rigorous philosophical reflection and insights from human experience and scientific discovery. Critiquing the classical Calvinist solution to the problem of evil, he advocates an alternative understanding of the sovereignty of the trinitarian God and of the reality of Satan that sheds light on our fallen human condition. While all may not agree with Boyd's conclusions, Satan and the Problem of Evil promises to advance the church's discussion of these critical issues Character Counts Michael Glenn Maness, 2010-12 The Bolsec Controversy on Predestination, from 1551 to 1555: Theological currents, the setting and mood, and the trial itself, bk. 1-2 Philip C. Holtrop, 1993 British Books in Print, 1985 Irenaeus on the Salvation of the Unevangelized Terrance L. Tiessen, 1993 Few questions have troubled Christians more than the destiny of those who do not hear the gospel For reasons described in this work Irenaeus second century Bishop of Lyons did not directly address the issue of the salvation of the unevangelized A careful analysis is therefore made of the saving effects of the various modes of revelation about which Irenaeus wrote in the context of his conflict with the Gnostics Particular attention is given to his understanding of the respective roles of the Father Son and Holy Spirit in divine revelation the role of the Church and the human response to divine revelation which is necessary for salvation Tiessen concludes that Irenaeus should not be cited as an early proponent of Karl Rahner's anonymous Christianity without careful qualification Some aspects of his thought however indicate that he might have granted the possibility of salvation for individuals outside of the institutional Church if he had known a situation such as we know today The work will be of particular interest to patrologists missiologists and theologians interested in the issues of revelation and salvation Clark H. Pinnock on Biblical Authority Ray C. W. Roennfeldt, 1993 Andrews University Seminary Studies Andrews University. Seventh-Day Adventist Theological Seminary, 1983 Journal of Biblical Literature, 1980 ADRIS Newsletter, 1979 The Journal of Religion, 1980 Includes section Book reviews The Biblical Archaeologist George Ernest Wright, Frank Moore Cross, Edward F.
