Mention the word autism and the room suddenly turns silent. It's the dreaded A word. People's attention turns to late night TV public service ads declaring that autistic children are imprisoned by autism and need curing at all cost. Recent autobiographies have helped dispel this dire description by suggesting that autism is not a prison and that the door is unlocked and you're free to come in. Women from Another Planet moves beyond these autistic life stories in important ways. It's a collection of stories and conversations all of them by women on the autism spectrum who speak candidly insightfully and often engagingly about both their gender in terms of their autism and their autism in terms of their gender. It is written not just for parents and professionals like the other works but also to those women still searching for ways to understand the unnamed difference they live with as well as the wider audience of discerning readers. If you enter the unlocked door of these Women from Another Planet you may end up with a question mark or two about your planet. Is normalcy really all its cracked up to be. Library Journal, 2009 Canadian Journal of Psychiatry, 2003 School Library Journal, 2009
