Maud Graham, 2015-07-16 A Canadian woman shares her story of traveling to South Africa to teach Boer children in concentration camps following the South African War. As the South African War reached its grueling end in 1902, colonial interests at the highest levels of the British Empire hand-picked teachers from across the Commonwealth to teach the thousands of Boer children living in concentration camps. Highly educated, hard-working, and often opinionated, E. Maud Graham joined the Canadian contingent of forty teachers. Her eyewitness account reveals the complexity of relations and tensions at a controversial period in the histories of both Britain and South Africa. Graham presents a lively historical travel memoir, and the editors have provided rich political and historical context to her narrative in the Introduction and generous annotations. This is a rare primary source for experts in Colonial Studies, Women's Studies, and Canadian South African and British Imperial History Readers with an interest in the South African War will be intrigued by Graham's observations on South African society at the end of the Victorian era. A fascinating perspective on the country, Graham's account will help others understand how the British and English speaking Canadians in South Africa perceived Boers and native southern Africans at the turn of the twentieth century and her descriptions reveal details about everyday life in South Africa at an important moment of transition. Graham's book represents the perspective of a well embedded outsider reporting to far removed readers rather than that of a female teacher involved in international or imperial education.

Benjamin Bryce Historical Studies in Education Recommended for those who wish to learn more about South African history and early race relations or tensions. Graham's opinionated writing will amuse and interest those researching women's studies.

Explorations and Adventures in Equatorial Africa Paul Belloni Du Chaillu, 1868 Heritage Vintage Movie Poster Signature Auction 2005 Catalog #624 Ivy Press, 2005-10 Penelope Voyages Karen R. Lawrence, 2018-08-06 Looking at travel writing by British women from the seventeenth century on Karen R. Lawrence asks an intriguing question: What happens when instead of waiting patiently for Odysseus, Penelope voyages and records her journey when the woman who is expected to wait sets forth herself and traces an itinerary of her own? Lawrence ranges widely discussing both fiction and nonfiction and traversing the genres of travel letters, realistic and sentimental novels, ethnography, fantasy, and postmodern narrative. In examining works as dissimilar as Margaret Cavendish's rendition of the Renaissance adventure narrative and Christine Brooke-Rose's postmodernist Between, she explores not only the significance of gender for travel writing but also the value of travel itself for testing the limits of women's social freedoms and restraints. Lawrence shows how writings by Frances Burney, Mary Wollstonecraft, Sarah Lee, Mary Kingsley, Virginia Woolf, and Brigid Brophy reconceive the meanings of femininity in relation to such apparent oppositions as travel/home, other/self, and foreign/domestic. Despite the differences, historical/generic/political, among these writers, Lawrence maintains they share common insights. Their accounts overturn the dichotomy between adventure and domesticity, demonstrating something illusory within both the stability of home and the freedom of travel.

Explorations & Adventures in Equatorial Africa Paul B. du Chaillu, 2022-06-04 Reprint of the original first published in 1861 The Image of Africa in Italian Music Luca Bussotti, 2025-10-02 The Image of Africa in Italian Popular Music proposes an innovative, fresh, provocative study delving inside the common mentality of Italians through their popular music and the way it has represented Africa and Africans. Italian music has largely followed national history, representing Africa as a mere object from an inferior and inferiorized land of conquest to a slow process of decolonization of this image which began around the 1980s and culminated with the irruption of second-generation Afro-Italian rappers into the Italian music scene. Through a careful analysis of the lyrics that is never detached from the historical context and sociological implications, the author shows how it was only with second-generation Afro-Italian rappers that provincial Italy had to come to terms with its present and its past. This musical movement gave rise to cultural, social, and political debates that went far beyond the mere fact of music, involving other types of art as well as proposing changes such as a new citizenship law that are still struggling to take hold. Far beyond the image of Italians as good people, these rappers challenge us on a complex and slippery terrain: the construction of a new Italianness, overcoming clichés and stereotypes that one part of the country stubbornly continues to defend.
