Science and Religion

Rogee A. Buchholz, 2023-02-15 Science and religion are two different worldviews that involve different methods of attaining truth one based on evidence using a scientific method to examine the natural world and the other based on belief in certain religious precepts often involving a supernatural dimension based on a holy book in some cases and on the authority of religious leaders This book examines the nature of religion and the role it plays in society along with unresolved problems that have existed for some time The nature of science is then discussed along with the scientific method and problems with science that have not been resolved The origins of science and religion are then examined and the relationship of these two worldviews and the relationship of science to the supernatural Finally the future of religion is examined along with its ongoing relationship to science The real battle between science and religion involves the question of who gets to decide the truth about the world we live in and our status as human beings in this world The answer to that question is not obvious but has enormous implications for human life on a planet that is under stress and may not be able to support human life for much longer as our actions have consequences that are now becoming all too apparent

Education for Knowing Paul A. Wagner, Frank K. Fair, 2020-10-30 If our goal is Education for Knowing as the title says then we need to be guided by a conception of what knowing is For example we can all agree that there are math facts that students need to learn and we can agree that there are general concepts and laws that students should be acquainted with But is there more involved perhaps something like nurturing in students a desire to probe deeper into the workings of things Or developing a capacity to explain why things work the way they do Our conceptions of what genuine knowing is serve as guides to what we think the goal of education is and they tell us how to build a student However as it turns out there are multiple conceptions of what knowing truly involves and these conceptions tend to be different for different sets of education stakeholders such as parents and their children school administrators and educational researchers Understanding this diversity of conceptions of knowing will make it easier for representatives of the different stakeholder groups to work together to accomplish the goal of building knowing students
