Congressional Record United States. Congress,1961 Divided We Fail Sarah Garland,2013-01-29 Examines why school desegregation despite its success in closing the achievement gap was never embraced wholeheartedly in the black community as a remedy for racial inequality In 2007 a court case originally filed in Louisville Kentucky was argued before the Supreme Court and officially ended the era of school desegregation both changing how schools across America handle race and undermining the most important civil rights cases of the last century Of course this wasn't the first federal lawsuit to challenge school desegregation But it was the first and only one brought by African Americans In Divided We Fail journalist Sarah Garland deftly and sensitively tells the stories of the families and individuals who fought for and against desegregation By reframing how we commonly understand race education and the history of desegregation this timely and deeply relevant book will be an important contribution to the continued struggle toward true racial equality

Atlas of Material Worlds Matthew Seibert,2021-08-17 Atlas of Material Worlds is a highly designed narrative atlas illustrating the agency of nonliving materials with unique ubiquitous and often hidden influence on our daily lives Employing new materialism as a jumping off point it examines the increasingly blurry lines between the organic and inorganic engaging the following questions What roles do nonliving materials play Might a closer examination of those roles reveal an undeniable agency we have long overlooked or disregarded If so does this material agency change our understanding of the social structures ecologies economies cosmologies technologies and landscapes that surround us And perhaps most importantly why does material agency matter This is the story of the world's driest nonpolar desert pink flamingos and cerulean blue lithium ponds industrial shipping logistics pudding like jiggling substrates and monuments of mud galactic bodies radioactive sheep and the yellowcake of uranium Put simply this book dares readers to see the world anew from material up Atlas of Material Worlds offers this new relationship to our host environment in a time of mounting crises accelerating climate change ballooning socioeconomic inequality and rising toxic nationalism uniquely telling materialist stories for practitioners and students in landscape architecture and other built environment disciplines
