1950s Cold War era monsters meet 21st century terrorists this exploration of sci fi movies examines the similarities and differences between the political environment and popular culture of two eras This examination and appreciation of 1950s science fiction films includes behind the scenes tales about their production and many quotes from those who produced and starred in the films The author draws parallels between the Cold War fears of the 1950s and 60s and the constant terrorism alerts of the September 11th era exploring how the politics and the psychological climate of the times influences and is reflected in this vehicle of popular culture This book is the first of its kind studying the pop culture genre in the wake of the September 11th tragedy It shows that whatever the era and whatever the challenges and crises confronting America many entertainment themes remain the same reflecting their respective times and the relevant issues For instance Godzilla the only Fifties era monster to remain a movie star beyond that era could be fashioned to reflect whatever issues dominate the times be they nuclear war in the Fifties when Godzilla originated to a Seventies Godzilla film about environmental pollution Conceivably a Godzilla for the age of terrorism is possible Then the 1954 atomic mutation classic is the spiritual ancestor of the 2002 film Eight Legged Freaks The alien invaders of the Fifties signified a Russian invasion of America while other films of the genre such as Invaders from Mars depicted aliens utilizing mind control to manipulate humans to commit acts of sabotage signifying Communist enslavement If such a film were made now such invaders could be seen as terrorist masterminds using human slaves to commit terrorist acts Finally several Fifties films depicted the end of the world at a time when Americans expected a nuclear war with Russia The immediate pre September 11th era witnessed films presenting galactic threats to mankind's existence Independence Day Deep Impact Armageddon while the early 2000s witnessed the popularity of the Left Behind Christian films dramatizing the Tribulation period in the Book of Revelation

Religion in Science Fiction Steven Hrotic,2014-07-31 Religion in Science Fiction investigates the history of the representations of religion in science fiction literature Space travel futuristic societies and non human cultures are traditional themes in science fiction Speculating on the societal impacts of as yet undiscovered technologies is after all one of the distinguishing characteristics of science fiction literature A more surprising theme may be a parallel exploration of religion its institutional nature social functions and the tensions between religious and scientific worldviews Steven Hrotic investigates the representations of religion in 19th century proto science fiction and genre science fiction from the 1920s through the end of the century Taken together he argues that these stories tell an overarching story a metanarrative of an evolving respect for religion paralleling a decline in the belief that science will lead us to an ideal and religion free future Science fiction s metanarrative represents more than simply a shift in popular perceptions of religion it also serves as a model for cognitive anthropology providing new insights into how groups and identities form in a globalized world and into how crucial a role narratives may play Ironically this same perspective suggests that science fiction as it was in the 20th century may no longer exist
