Unsettling The Settler Within Unsettling The Settler Within:

Unsettling the Settler Within Paulette Regan, 2010-12-22 In 2008 the Canadian government apologized to the victims of the notorious Indian residential school system and established a Truth and Reconciliation Commission whose goal was to mend the deep rifts between Aboriginal peoples and the settler society that engineered the system Unsettling the Settler Within argues that in order to truly participate in the transformative possibilities of reconciliation non Aboriginal Canadians must undergo their own process of decolonization They must relinquish the persistent myth of themselves as peacemakers and acknowledge the destructive legacy of a society that has stubbornly ignored and devalued Indigenous experience Today s truth and reconciliation processes must make space for an Indigenous historical counter narrative in order to avoid perpetuating a colonial relationship between Aboriginal and settler peoples A compassionate call to action this powerful book offers all Canadians both Indigenous and not a new way of approaching the critical task of healing the wounds left by the residential school system Unsettling the Settler Within: Indian Residential Schools, Truth Telling, and Reconciliation in Canada , 2015 In 2008 Canada established a Truth and Reconciliation Commission to mend the deep rifts between Aboriginal peoples and the settler society that created Canada s notorious residential school system Unsettling the Settler Within argues that non Aboriginal Canadians must undergo their own process of decolonization in order to truly participate in the transformative possibilities of reconciliation Settlers must relinquish the persistent myth of themselves as peacemakers and acknowledge the destructive legacy of a society that has stubbornly ignored and devalued Indigenous experience A compassionate call to action this powerful book offers a new and hopeful path toward healing the wounds of the past pub description Global Perspectives on Indigenous Film and Literature Amar Ramesh Wayal, A. P. Anupama, 2025-09-22 This edited volume comprehensively explores narrative survival in Indigenous film and literature forging a literary and transitional approach to native writing It navigates the evolution of Indigenous voices spanning the oral tradition and literary forms from colonial times to the present It covers a range of issues related to indigenous inequalities and diversities in film and literature With chapters from global perspectives including North America Canada New Zealand and South Asia it ensures an inclusive exploration of indigenous narratives The diverse chapters address topics such as the aboriginal experience residential school legacy the invisible nation of Algonquins tribal songs decolonial futures caste survival narrative trauma and other marginalized groups such as low castes linguistic minorities and Adivasis tribals The book focuses on innovative concepts to understand the study of a particular indigenous group in isolation from others and more than the conventional comparative study of different indigenous groups It deals with the challenges of achieving local indigenous rights and identities It is a valuable resource for social science and humanities scholars particularly for indigenous scholars development professionals and administrators interested in the issues related to social diversity and indigeneity in a global setting Canada's Residential Schools: Reconciliation Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, 2015-12-09

Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools Reconciliation documents the complexities challenges and possibilities of reconciliation by presenting the findings of public testimonies from residential school Survivors and others who participated in the TRC s national events and community hearings For many Aboriginal people reconciliation is foremost about healing families and communities and revitalizing Indigenous cultures languages spirituality laws and governance systems For governments building a respectful relationship involves dismantling a centuries old political and bureaucratic culture in which all too often policies and programs are still based on failed notions of assimilation For churches demonstrating long term commitment to reconciliation requires atoning for harmful actions in the residential schools respecting Indigenous spirituality and supporting Indigenous peoples struggles for justice and equity Schools must teach Canadian history in ways that foster mutual respect empathy and engagement All Canadian children and youth deserve to know what happened in the residential schools and to appreciate the rich history and collective knowledge of Indigenous peoples This volume also emphasizes the important role of public memory in the reconciliation process as well as the role of Canadian society including the corporate and non profit sectors the media and the sports community in reconciliation The Commission urges Canada to adopt the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples as a framework for reconciliation While Aboriginal peoples are victims of violence and discrimination they are also holders of Treaty Aboriginal and human rights and have a critical role to play in reconciliation All Canadians must understand how traditional First Nations Inuit and Métis approaches to resolving conflict repairing harm and restoring relationships can inform the reconciliation process The TRC s calls to action identify the concrete steps that must be taken to ensure that our children and grandchildren can live together in dignity peace and prosperity on these lands we now share

Unsettling Canadian Art History Erin Morton, 2022-06-15 Bringing together fifteen scholars of art and culture Unsettling Canadian Art History addresses the visual and material culture of settler colonialism enslavement and racialized diasporas in the contested white settler state of Canada This collection offers new avenues for scholarship on art archives and creative practice by rethinking histories of Canadian colonialisms from Black Indigenous racialized feminist queer trans and Two Spirit perspectives Writing across many positionalities contributors offer chapters that disrupt colonial archives of art and culture excavating and reconstructing radical Black Indigenous and racialized diasporic creation and experience Exploring the racist frameworks that continue to erase histories of violence and resistance this book imagines the expansive possibilities of a decolonial future Unsettling Canadian Art History affirms the importance of collaborative conversations and work in the effort to unsettle scholarship in Canadian art and culture A Generation Removed Margaret D.

Jacobs,2014-09-01 Examination of the post WWII international phenomenon of governments legally taking indigenous children away from their primary families and placing them with adoptive parents in the U S Canada and Australia

Re-Forming History Mark Sandle,William Van Arragon,2019-05-23 Does the discipline of history need a reformation How should Christian faith shape the ways historians do their work This book written for students considers the how of doing history The authors first examine the current liturgies of the historical profession and suggest that the discipline is in crisis They argue for re formed Christian practices and methodologies for history The book asks important questions why do we do history and for whom How should faith shape how we do our research and tell stories What do we owe the dead How should Christian historians practice dangerous memory And how can Christian historians do justice love mercy and walk humbly with God How might we rethink reform renew reimagine and re practice the study of the past Christian historians must be sentinels of hope against the world s forgetfulness the authors argue and this book offers some pathways for rethinking our practices from a Christian perspective Pathways of Settler Decolonization Lynne Davis,Jeffrey Denis,Raven

Sinclair,2020-05-06 Although settler colonialism is a deeply entrenched structural problem Indigenous peoples have always resisted it and sought to protect their land sovereignty and treaties Some settlers have aimed to support Indigenous peoples in these struggles This book examines what happens when settlers engage with and attempt to transform settler colonial systems What does decolonizing action look like What roles can settlers play What challenges complexities and barriers arise And what opportunities and possibilities emerge The authors emphasize the need for settlers to develop long term relationships of accountability with Indigenous peoples and the land participate in meaningful dialogue and respect Indigenous laws and jurisdiction Writing from multiple disciplinary lenses and focusing on diverse research settings from Turtle Island North America to Palestine the authors show that transforming settler colonial relations and consciousness is an ongoing iterative and unsettling process that occurs through social justice focused action critical self reflection and dynamic yet committed relationships with Indigenous peoples This book was originally published as a special issue of Settler Colonial Studies Neurodecolonisation in the Classroom Remy Y.S. Low,2025-08-18 This book extends on the scholarship on decolonising higher education by focusing on classroom pedagogies that can transform students embodied affects and habits as conditioned by coloniality It does so by offering a historical case study of how one exemplary educator Canadian activist and scholar Roxana Chu Yee Ng 1951 2013 drew on traditional Chinese medicine philosophy and Qigong practice to offer an embodied pedagogy that had profound effects on many of her students This book brings together scholarship from critical education contemplative pedagogy the neuroscience of stress mind body medicine and embodied cognition to make the case for the importance of embodied pedagogies in any project for decolonising higher education An innovative contribution to embodiment and decolonial studies this book will be of great interest to researchers and postgraduate students exploring interdisciplinary methods

Unsettling Settler Societies Daiva Stasiulis, Nira Yuval-Davis, 1995-08-11 Settler societies are those in which Europeans have settled and become politically dominant over indigenous people and where a heterogeneous society has developed in class ethnic and racial terms They offer a unique prism for understanding the complex relations of gender race ethnicity and class in contemporary societies Unsettling Settler Societies brings together a distinguished cast of contributors to explore these relations in both material and discursive terms They look at the relation between indigenous and settler immigrant populations focusing in particular on women's conditions and politics The book examines how the process of development of settler societies and the positions of indigenous and
