Thrombolytic Therapy For Acute Stroke:

Thrombolytic Therapy for Acute Stroke Patrick D. Lyden, 2005-03-24 Annotation The world's leading experts detail the basic rationale, scientific evidence, and treatment protocol for thrombolytic therapy in acute stroke patients. Thoroughly revised and updated, these experienced clinicians show how promptly delivered thrombolysis can restore cerebral blood flow in time to salvage brain and neurologic functions. New chapters cover topics such as the newer thrombolytics TNK, desmoteplase, and reteplase; MRI imaging to guide thrombolytics; new content on intra-arterial and combined IV/IA therapies; as well as new clinical cases covering the real-life use of thrombolytics. Their description of the treatment protocol discusses field triage and management, emergency department therapy, brain imaging, clinical decision making, and patient selection, drug administration, post-thrombolysis management, and the treatment of complications.

Thrombolytic Therapy in Acute Ischemic Stroke Werner Hacke, Gregory J. DelZoppo, Matthias Hirschberg, 2012-12-06 During the last decade, scientists in both basic and clinical research have renewed their interest in the potential role of thrombolytic therapy in the treatment of acute ischemic stroke. The reevaluation of this approach was kindled by our growing knowledge of the pathogenesis of thrombotic and embolic stroke and by the development of new thrombolytic agents. With no proven therapy for acute ischemic stroke available, the potential value of early pharmacologic recanalization of occluded vessels in the management of acute stroke patients, an approach that has been supported by animal experiments and a limited number of uncontrolled clinical pilot studies, is again under scrutiny. A symposium on Thrombolysis in Acute Cerebral Ischemia was held in Heidelberg, Germany, in May 1990 to summarize and discuss the pathophysiological background for thrombolysis in acute ischemic stroke and the recent experimental and clinical experience with the new generation of thrombolytic agents. The editors are fortunate to be able to include authoritative manuscripts from almost all the speakers at the symposium. These include reports of work by the most active investigators in this challenging field. The editors wish to express their gratitude to all the contributors for the additional work they have undertaken. Additionally, we would like to thank Springer Verlag Heidelberg for its generous assistance in the preparation and rapid publication of this volume. Heidelberg, August 1990. WERNER HACKE, GREGORY J. DEL ZOPPO, MATTHIAS HIRSCHBERG. Contents I Thrombolytic Therapy for Stroke Patrick D.

Lyden, 2001-02-23 Thrombolytic Therapy for Stroke is intended for physicians who will be treating patients in the first few hours after stroke: neurologists, neurosurgeons, emergency medicine physicians, internists, and radiologists. In some areas, family medicine and general practice physicians may provide the majority of acute stroke care. We will provide the reader with all the data necessary to understand the utility and limitations of thrombolytic therapy. By reading the protocols and working through the case tutorials, the reader will become sufficiently familiar with the indications and contraindications of thrombolytic therapy to begin evaluating potential patients. Although nothing can replace direct instruction by more experienced physicians, we hope that by imparting our accumulated knowledge, we may guide those physicians who cannot attend a hands on workshop or who having heard the appropriate lectures feel the need for further guidance We will review the scientific rationale for thrombolysis first most ischemic stroke is caused by thrombo emboli second a portion of brain the penumbra remains salvageable for a few hours after vascular occlusion and third promptly delivered thrombolysis can remove the offending occlusion and restore cerebral blood flow to the penumbra in time to salvage brain and neurologic function Then we will review the preclinical development of thrombolytics for stroke patients and the early pilot trials Next we will present the pivotal clinical trials that demonstrated the efficacy and safety of thrombolysis

Thrombolytic Therapy in Acute Ischemic Stroke III Takenori Yamaguchi, Etsuro Mori, Kazuo Minematsu, Gregory J. DelZoppo, 2012-12-06 On the threshold of an exciting new era for acute stroke diagnosis and treatment the Third International Symposium on Thrombolytic Therapy in Acute Ischemic Stroke was held in Nara Japan in April 1994 The symposium brought together some 200 basic and clinical scientists for presentations and discussions of issues vital to the understanding of thrombolytic therapy This volume compiles the major presentations of the symposium with attention to applications of new diagnostic measures such as diffusion and perfusion MRI contrast enhanced transcranial Doppler and angiography Other presentations examine the mechanisms of ischemia reperfusion injury hemorrhagic transformation and reocclusion with reviews of recent developments in thrombolytic agents The proceedings of the symposium will be of special interest to researchers physicians and students in the fields of neurology neurosurgery and nuclear medicine as well as those in pharmacology critical care medicine and related fields

Mori, Werner Hacke, 2012-12-06 Over the last decade interest in treatment of ischemic stroke has increased significantly. Perhaps the single most important feature of attempts to improve the outcome of stroke patients has been that the interventions be applied within the very early hours of stroke symptoms. This has spawned efforts to understand the vascular and neuronal responses to cerebral artery reperfusion experimentally. Important prospective clinical studies of thrombolysis in acute ischemic stroke have been completed and large placebo controlled symptom based studies are now underway worldwide. Here we consider the central features of those studies, their experimental basis and the future importance of adjunctive therapies to recanalization in focal brain ischemia acutely. Risks and benefits are discussed. This collection benefits from the opinions of experts and workers in this rapidly evolving and exciting field. Thrombolytic and Antithrombotic Therapy for Stroke Julian Bogousslavsky, Werner Hacke, 2006-07-07 Thrombolytic therapy for stroke with the introduction of tissue plasminogen activator (tPA) was a boon to stroke physicians since it meant that morbidity and mortality could be reduced with the optimal use of tPA. The editor and his well respected contributors offer the reader their personal perspectives on the evidence based use of various thrombolytic and anti thrombotic agents that are available and that can provide successful outcomes. Thrombolytic and Antithrombotic Therapy for Stroke is updated and thoroughly referenced. Everyone working in the casualty emergency room must read this clearly written text. Guidelines for Thrombolytic Therapy for Acute Stroke American Heart Association, Stroke Council, American Heart Association, 1996 POSSIBLE SYNERGISTIC EFFECT OF THROMBOLYTIC THERAPY WITH ALTEPLASE AND SYSTEMIC CEREBROLYSINE IN THE ACUTE STROKE PATIENTS Josip Ljevak, 2017 Background and Aims: Thrombolytic therapy with rtPA remains a golden standard for treating acute ischaemic stroke (AIS). In clinical setting though thrombolytic treatment results in recanalisation in only 30% of patients and in some of them increases risk of serious complications. Cerebrolysin however showed several levels of neuroprotection after thrombolysis. Materials and methods: we performed a prospective study on patients with acute ischemic stroke after thrombolytic therapy with or without endovascular recanalization therapy without clinical improvement in the first 24 hours. The patients were divided in two groups: study group of patients who received Cerebrolysin during at least 14 and no longer than 21 days and a control group. Patients in both groups had baseline NIHSS of 8. We compared outcome after 7 days of treatment (NIHSS by discharge) and after 90 days (mRS). Results: Our results showed a slightly better outcome measured with mRS after 90 days without reaching statistical significance. However, the cerebrolysin group of patients showed statistically significant lower rate of haemorrhagic complication after thrombolytic therapy. Conclusions: Conclusion based on the first results: Cerebrolysin could be considered as safe for the patients with acute stroke after thrombolytic therapy with or without thrombectomy and there is certain benefit in 90 days outcome in the cerebrolysin patients group. 4th International Symposium on Thrombolytic Therapy in Acute Ischemic Stroke Scandinavian Society for Cerebrovascular Diseases, European Stroke Council, 1996 3rd International Symposium on
