Our Town

a final production and a final tribute

The Mask and Wig Players' final production of the 1977-78 season, Thornton Wilder's Our Town, opened last night in the Alma Thomas Theatre.

Our Town is Thornton Wilder's portrait of American family life at the turn of the century, as seen through the members of two families in the small fictional town of Grover's Corners, New Hampshire.

The play is much more than a dated study of life in the past however, for its chief concern is those universal experiences which belong to every generation: day-in-day-out routine, love and marriage, and death.

The message Wilder conveys — that our uniqueness lies in the fact that we, as human beings, are struggling away, trying to make something of ourselves — is as pertinent today as it was in 1940.

The cast features Mr. Fred Goodman, professor of Drama at SU, as the Stage Manager. He is supported, quite capably, by thirty-odd Southwestern students as members of the two principal families or people of the town.

The production is directed, of course, by Dr. Angus Springer, who is completing his thirty-fifth and final year as head of the university's Department of Speech and Drama.

Certain tonight and tomorrow night is at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free, and invitations may be reserved by calling university ext. 329.

Political Science Society elects new officers

Members of the Political Science Society recently elected new officers for the 1978-79 academic year: President, Mike Yarbem; Program Chairman, Tom Schenker; Secretary, Judy Anthony.

In keeping with the past success of the Society in bringing interesting and thought-provoking speakers to this campus, the new officers plan to expand the range of their guest speakers to interest more of the campus membership. For this reason, everyone is encouraged to provide their input in order to bring the kind of speakers the students really want to hear.

Representatives of the legal profession were popular with Society members this past year as they hosted both a lobbyist and a general counsel for the State Bar of Texas, two district judges, a district attorney, and a county attorney.

With the hopes of attracting even more of the political candidates for the November elections, the Society brought Preston Smith and Ray Hutchinson to campus, both candidates for the governor's race. Lyndon Olson, U.S. Congressional candidate for the Waco district, also spoke to the group.

One of the most interesting speakers of the year was State Senator Lloyd Deggett from Austin who spoke on the passage of sunset legislation for several of the more unproductive state agencies and commissions.

Of more interest to the general campus community, other guests of the Society included an investigator into child pornography in Texas, a three-star general who spoke on conditions in Russia, and a representative for the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Highlighting this year for the Society was Political Science Week, co-sponsored by the Pre-Law Association and the Young Republicans. Prominent speakers included S.U. alumnus Senator John Tower, the dean of the U.T. Law School Page Keeton, and a leading newspaper correspondent from Japan visited the campus during that week.

The Political Science Society also sponsors trips to Austin to hear such well-known figures as Henry Kissinger and holds annual picnics in San Gabriel Park.
