These Survivals Lynne Huffer, 2025-04-04 A collage style work in fragments Lynne Huffer's These Survivals brings together philosophy memoir poetry and original multimedia artworks to articulate an ethics of living on a devastated planet Focusing on climate change and mass species extinction Huffer approaches ruination through assemblages rendered in sharp edged prose vibrant color images and experimental features that include black out poems weather reports and abecedarian essays She considers her struggles with everyday life and confronts the immensity of extinction across the expanse of geological time recognizing the self's insignificance in the context of the planet's 4.5 billion year existence As she moves across autobiographical political and literary registers her abiding theme is the repeated phrase the fragment remains while the whole crumbles At every turn Huffer insists on the fragmentary provisional nature of anything taken to be whole as well as the impartial conditions under which we write at times experienced as constraint and at others freedom Reveling in interruption obliquity and layering Huffer opens space for thought to emerge in unexpected and innovative ways ways that are grounded in the material practices of writing and living Biomechanics, Aging, Exercise and Other Interventions Rafael Reimann Baptista, Marcus Fraga Vieira, Chiarella Sforza, Rezaul Begg, 2022-12-01 The World & I, 1987 Jewish Topographies Julia Brauch, Anna Lipphardt, 2016-05-06 How have Jews experienced their environments and how have they engaged with specific places How do Jewish spaces emerge how are they contested performed and used With these questions in mind this anthology focuses on the production of Jewish space and lived Jewish spaces and sheds light on their diversity inter connectedness and multi dimensionality By exploring historical and contemporary case studies from around the world the essays collected here shift the temporal focus generally applied to Jewish civilization to a spatially oriented perspective The reader encounters sites such as the gardens cultivated in the Ghettos during World War II the Israeli development town of Netivot Thornhill an Orthodox suburb of Toronto or new virtual sites of Jewish Second Life on the Internet and learns about the Jewish landkentenish movement in Interwar Poland the Jewish connection to the sea and the culinary landscapes of Russian Jews in New York Employing an interdisciplinary approach with a strong foothold in cultural history and cultural anthropology this anthology introduces new methodological and conceptual approaches to the study of the spatial aspects of Jewish civilization A Reference Guide for English Studies Michael J. first time Trauma, Psychosis, and Posttraumatic Stress Disorder Kate V. Hardy, Kim T. Mueser, 2017-12-21 There is abundant evidence showing a strong association between trauma exposure psychotic symptoms and posttraumatic stress disorder PTSD Early trauma exposure contributes to the formation of psychotic symptoms and the development of psychotic disorders or severe mental illnesses such as schizophrenia bipolar disorder and treatment refractory major depression Furthermore among persons with psychotic disorders multiple traumatization over the lifetime is common due to factors such as social stigma the criminalization of severe mental illness and increased vulnerability to interpersonal victimization In addition to these factors is the traumatic nature of experiencing psychotic symptoms and coercive treatments such as involuntary hospitalization and being placed in seclusion or restraints Not surprisingly these high rates of trauma lead to high rates of PTSD in people with psychotic disorders which are associated with more severe symptoms worse functioning and greater use of acute care services In addition to the impact of trauma on the development of psychotic disorders and comorbid PTSD traumatic experiences such as childhood sexual and physical abuse can shape the nature of prominent psychotic symptoms such as the content of auditory hallucinations and delusional beliefs Additionally traumatic experiences have been implicated in the role of stress responsivity and increased risk for transition to psychosis in those identified as being at clinical high risk of developing psychosis Finally although the diagnostic criteria for PTSD primarily emphasize the effects of trauma on anxiety avoidance physiological over arousal and negative thoughts it is well established that PTSD is frequently accompanied by psychotic symptoms such as hallucinations and delusions that cannot be attributed to another DSM V Axis I disorder such as psychotic depression or schizophrenia Understanding the contribution of traumatic experiences to the etiology of psychosis and other symptoms can inform the provision of cognitive behavioral therapy for psychosis including the development of a shared formulation of the events leading up to the onset of the disorder as well as other trauma informed treatments that address distressing and disabling symptoms associated with trauma and psychosis

Until recently the trauma treatment needs of this population have been neglected despite the high rates of trauma and PTSD in persons with psychotic disorders and in spite of substantial gains made in the treatment of PTSD in the general population. Fortunately progress in recent years has provided encouraging evidence that PTSD can be effectively treated in people with psychotic disorders using interventions adapted from PTSD treatments developed for the general population. In contrast to clinician fears about the untoward effects of trauma focused treatments on persons with a psychotic disorder, research indicates that post traumatic disorders can be safely treated and that participants frequently experience symptom relief and improved functioning. There is a need to develop a better understanding of the interface between trauma psychosis and post traumatic disorder. This Frontiers Research Topic is devoted to research addressing this interface.
