Through the Looking-glass (and what Alice Found There). Lewis Carroll,1996-02 I should see the garden far better said Alice to herself if I could get to the top of that hill and here's a path that leads straight to it at least no it doesn't do that after going a few yards along the path and turning several sharp corners but I suppose it will at last But how curiously it twists It's more like a corkscrew than a path Well THIS turn goes to the hill I suppose no it doesn't Through the Looking-Glass and What Alice Found There Lewis Carroll,2020-10-29 Once again Alice finds herself in a peculiar place In this sequel to Alice's Adventures in Wonderland Alice has climbed through a mirror and arrived in a world in which everything is reversed like a reflection including logic It makes for another absurdly funny story full of wonder and snark that like the first book never talks down to its young audience The popular Tim Burton movie Alice in Wonderland 2010 starring Johnny

Depp Helena Bonham Carter and Anne Hathaway to name a few is loosely based on both this and the previous novel. In some ways Through the Looking Glass and What Alice Found There 1871 has had an even bigger impact on today's popular culture than the first book. Lewis Carroll (pseudonym of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson 1832-1898) was a British mathematician, photographer, and children's book author. The idea for his most famous work Alice's Adventures in Wonderland came to Carroll when he was on a boat with friends having to entertain three young girls, one of whose names was Alice. Despite his success as a children's book author, Carroll considered himself first and foremost a man of science and mathematics.

Through the Looking Glass (And What Alice Found There)

"Lewis Carroll" Annotated Lewis Carroll, 2021-04-22 The book begins as Alice is sitting with her pet kitten Kitty who is playing with a ball of string. Alice tells Kitty a story about Looking Glass House, a magical world on the other side of the mirror where everything is backwards. Suddenly, Alice finds herself on the mantelpiece. She walks through the mirror and she is in Looking Glass House. She sees that she is in a room quite like her own but slightly different. There are chessmen standing in pairs on the fireplace and Alice comes to the aid of the White Queen's daughter, Lily, but the chessmen seem to be unable to see her. She finds a poem called Jabberwocky which is complete nonsense and this frustrates her and she decides to explore the rest of the house. She finds a magnificent garden and follows the path into the garden. Strangely, every time she follows the path through the garden, she ends up back at the door to the house. In her frustration, she wonders aloud about how to make her way through the garden and to her surprise, a Tiger Lily responds. The other flowers begin to speak and a few of them are rude to Alice. She learns from the flowers the Red Queen is near and Alice goes to find her. When Alice meets the Red Queen, she engages in a conversation. The Red Queen keeps correcting Alice's etiquette. Alice then notices a chess game being played and tells the Red Queen she would like to play. The Red Queen tells her she can be a White Pawn and if she makes it to the end of the game, Alice will become a queen.
