Tropical Storm Manuel And Hurricane Ingrid:

Environmental Security and India Satabdi Das, 2022-08-26 This book examines environmental issues through the lens of security studies and presents a comprehensive analysis of Indian policy in dealing with threats posed by climate change. This book puts forward a theoretical base for securitization of environmental issues incorporating different schools of thought. Presents a survey of global environmental politics in general and the effects of climate change and its consequences for India's national security in particular. Examines the politics involved in India's environmental policy at both the domestic and international levels. Outlines key policy takeaways and possibilities for action that can help contain the threat of environmental change. A comprehensive guide to a new and emerging dimension in Indian security policy, this book will be essential reading for students and researchers of international relations, security studies, especially non-traditional security, public policy, especially environmental policy, and area studies. Mexico's Uneven Development Oscar J.

Martinez, 2015-08-27 Mexico and the United States may be neighbors but their economies offer stark contrasts. In Mexico's Uneven Development: The Geographical and Historical Context of Inequality Oscar J. Martinez explores Mexico's history to explain why Mexico remains less developed than the United States. Weaving in stories from his own experiences growing up along the U.S.-Mexico border, Martinez shows how the foundational factors of external relations, the natural environment, the structures of production and governance, natural resources, and population dynamics have all played roles in shaping the Mexican economy. This interesting and thought-provoking study clearly and convincingly explains the issues that affect Mexico's underdevelopment. It will prove invaluable to anyone studying Mexico's past or interested in its future. Risk Analysis IX C. A. Brebbia, 2014-06-04 Containing papers presented at the 9th International Conference on Computer Simulation in Risk Analysis and Hazard Mitigation, this book covers a series of important topics of current research interests and many practical applications. It is concerned with all aspects of risk management and hazard mitigation associated with both natural and anthropogenic hazards. The analysis and management of risk and the mitigation of hazards is of fundamental importance to planners and researchers around the world. We live in an increasingly complex society with the potential for disasters on a worldwide scale. Natural hazards such as floods, earthquakes, landslides, fires, and others have always affected human societies. Man-made hazards, however, played a comparatively small role a few centuries ago until the risk of catastrophic events started to increase due to the rapid growth of new technologies. The interaction of natural and anthropogenic risks adds to the complexity of the problem. Topics covered include Risk assessment, Risk management, Hazard prevention, management and control, Early warning systems, Risk mapping, Natural hazards, Disaster management, Vulnerability assessment, Health risk, Debris flow and flood hazards, Case studies, Climate change, Safety and security, Evacuation simulation and design, Political and economic vulnerability. Management of Natural Disasters S.

Syngellakis, 2016-12-12 Comprising a selection of articles dedicated to disaster management, this volume focuses on the challenges arising from extreme natural phenomena and descriptions of methods for assessing their occurrence probability and of measures for mitigating their intensity and detrimental effects The first group of articles describes general strategies for risk assessment and mitigation providing examples in the context of various kinds of natural disasters The economic impact of mitigation measures communities differing coping capabilities human attitudes towards relocation and possible links to climate change are among the topics considered Natural strategies are outlined in the contexts of Turkey Brazil and United Arab Emirates The second part of the book is concerned with disasters from specific natural causes starting with a group of ten articles on floods The corresponding contributions address flood frequency vulnerability and resilience of communities response of small and medium enterprises risk in terms of financial losses private investment participation to mitigation measures assessment of design solutions against flood hazard sleeper dykes as a means of reducing risk preparedness of hospitals causes of highway flooding and their relative importance and impact of floods on poor communities The third set of articles are related to earthquake related hazards describing in particular an analysis tool providing integrated risk coping capacity and management output a method for assessing vulnerability considering key contributing factors a technique for urban aftershock management and damage assessment and neural network modelling to estimate tsunami damage Finally a group of three articles address issues related to landslides namely slope management as a means of reducing risk and losses early warning based on rainfall data and hazard prediction using favourability function modelling and spatial target mapping software Providing a unique global perspective this volume focuses on recent developments over a wide range of topics that cannot be found in similar currently available publications in this field This is a valuable addition to the relevant literature available to researchers and engineers working on risk assessment and mitigation of natural disaster intensity and consequences It will appeal of those working in academic and research environments as well as governmental professional national and international organisations
