

VOICES OF FREEDOM

From SCAROUYADY, SPEECH TO PENNSYLVANIA PROVINCIAL COUNCIL (1756)

The outbreak of the Seven Years' War inflamed relations between Native Americans and white settlers in the Pennsylvania backcountry. Scarouady, an Oneida leader who wished to maintain harmony, told the colony's leaders that he approved of war against hostile tribes and hoped that a fort could be built to protect friendly Indians and keep armed whites in check. But the middle ground was rapidly disappearing.

You have . . . tried all amicable means with [the Delaware Indians] and with the Six Nations, but as all have proved ineffectual, you do right to strike them. You have had a great deal of patience; other people on losing a single man, would have armed and drove off the foe; but you have sat still while numbers of your people have been and now are murdered. . . . Your enemies have got great advantage by your inactivity; show them you are men.

You told us that you must now build a Fort at Shamokin; we are glad to hear it; it is a good thing. . . . The Fort at Shamokin is not a thing of little consequence; it is of the greatest importance to us as well as you. Your people are foolish for want of this Fort, the Indians, who are your friends, can be of no service to you, having no place to go to where they can promise themselves protection. They cannot be called together; they can do nothing for you; they are not secure any where. At present your people cannot distinguish foes from friends; they think every Indian is against them; they blame us all without distinction, because they see nobody appear for them; the common people to a man entertain this notion, and insult us wherever we go. We bear their ill usage, though very irksome; but all this will be set right when you have built the Fort, and you will see that we in particular are sincere, and many others will come to your assistance. We desire when the fort is built, you will put into the command of so important a place some of your people; grave, solid, and sensible men, who are in repute amongst you, and in whom we can place a Confidence. . . . Do yourselves and us Justice, and bring your Enemies to a due Sense of themselves, and to offer just Terms, and then, and not till then, think of a Peace. This is our Advice.

Stewart,2016-12-05 Exploring Kierkegaard s complex use of the Bible the essays in this volume use source critical research and tools ranging from literary criticism to theology and biblical studies to situate Kierkegaard s appropriation of the biblical material in his cultural and intellectual context The contributors seek to identify the possible sources that may have influenced Kierkegaard s understanding and employment of Scripture and to describe the debates about the Bible that may have shaped perhaps indirectly his attitudes toward Scripture They also pay close attention to Kierkegaard s actual hermeneutic practice analyzing the implicit interpretive moves that he makes as well as his more explicit statements about the significance of various biblical passages This close reading of Kierkegaard s texts elucidates the unique and sometimes odd features of his frequent appeals to Scripture This volume in the series devotes one tome to the Old Testament and a second tome to the New Testament Tome I considers the canonically disputed literature of the Apocrypha Although Kierkegaard certainly cited the Old Testament much less frequently than he did the New passages and themes from the Old Testament do occupy a position of startling importance in his writings Old Testament characters such as Abraham and Job often play crucial and even decisive roles in his texts Snatches of Old Testament wisdom figure prominently in his edifying literature The vocabulary and cadences of the Psalms saturate his expression of the range of human passions from joy to despair The essays in this first tome seek to elucidate the crucial rhetorical uses to which he put key passages from the Old Testament the sources that influenced him to do this and his reasons for doing so Musical Observer ,1924 Wolves
