

Structure of the Earth

The Core

- Found at the centre of the earth.
- Consists of the inner and outer core.

The Inner Core

- Found at the very centre of the earth.
- The hottest part (~6000°C).
- Solid and mostly consists of iron.

The Outer Core

- Semi-molten.
- Mostly consists of liquid iron and nickel.
- Temperature ranges from 4500°C-6000°C.

The Mantle

- Surrounds the core and is the widest layer making up the earth.
- Upper part is solid but below the rock is semi-molten - forming the asthenosphere, which tectonic plates move over.
- This is because the mantle has a geothermal gradient:
 - There is a steady increase of temperature with depth as the lower mantle is in contact with the outer core.
 - Rocks found in the upper mantle are cooler and brittle compared with those in the lower mantle which are much hotter and plastic (not fully molten though).
 - Rocks in the upper mantle are brittle enough to break under stress and produce earthquakes.
 - However rocks in the lower mantle are plastic and instead begin to flow when subjected to forces and the high pressure and heat.

The Crust

- Forms the outer shell of the earth.
- Two types: oceanic and continental.

Between them, the crust and upper mantle make up the lithosphere – the solid layer from which tectonic plates are formed.

The Crust

Continental Crust

- Ranges from 25-70km in thickness (thicker than oceanic) and is underlain by about 80km of the uppermost mantle layer. This is made from coarse grained igneous rock peridotite.
- Rock types – Granite/Diorite
- Older rock – some continental crust is estimated to be 4 billion years old.

Oceanic Crust

- Ranges from 6-11 km in thickness (thinner than continental) and is underlain by about 40-100km of the uppermost mantle layer.
- Much denser rock
- Rock types – Gabbro/Basalt
- “Recycled” more frequently – most no more than 250 million years old.

Constructing Science in Elementary Classrooms Norman G. Lederman, Judith S. Lederman, Randy L. Bell, 2004 Solidly based on the National Science Education Standards and Benchmarks for Science Literacy this new elementary science methods text immerses students into the context of classroom instruction through the authors unique approach using The Teaching Cycle The text is divided into three major sections or clusters of chapters Goals of Science Instruction Setting the Stage and The Teaching Cycle The first two sections provide the theoretical and practical foundations for instruction while the third section provides content Section I presents an overall view of science as a way of knowing and eventually develops an argument for why science should be included in the curriculum at all Section II emphasizes the importance of connecting lessons and avoiding the tendency to present individual science lessons in isolation The major content chapters comprising Section III The Teaching Cycle Life Environmental Science Physical Science Earth and Space Science each incorporate the traditional topics of methods courses e g demonstrations laboratories classroom management assessment developmental psychology etc concepts and themes common to national reforms Close Reading of Informational Sources Sunday Cummins, 2019-05-10 Given the number of well developed informational sources available to educators and students and the focus of departments of education on learning from these sources there is so much potential for students to grow as critical consumers of information Being able to read informational sources closely or watch and listen to sources carefully across all content areas creates a path for being able to understand the world better More than ever before close reading has become an essential approach with students and the informational sources they are attempting to understand In addition to addressing instruction with traditional printed texts I address how to teach for understanding of content in videos and infographics I have also developed a three phase plan for learning and a matching template for lesson planning Reading and Writing in Science Maria C. Grant, Douglas Fisher, Diane Lapp, 2015-01-21 Engage your students in scientific thinking across disciplines Did you know that scientists spend more than half of their time reading and writing Students who are science literate can analyze present and defend data both orally and in writing The updated edition of this bestseller offers strategies to link the new science standards with literacy expectations and specific ideas you can put to work right away Features include A discussion of how to use science to develop essential 21st century skills Instructional routines that help students become better writers Useful strategies for using complex scientific texts in the classroom Tools to monitor student progress through formative assessment When students are curious they thrive Give your students the strong base they need to create and share scientific ideas that have an impact in the classroom and beyond This is a teacher friendly book that drew me in from the introduction to the end Through real life scenarios combined with useful methods for instruction it illustrates how science teachers can use language as a tool for teaching science Trina Allen Science Content Specialist Measurement Incorporated An eminently readable guide for the novice and experienced teacher The many practical ideas in this volume demonstrate that improving students skills in reading and writing can also improve their understanding and ability in science
