Two Or Three Things I Know For Sure:

Two or Three Things I Know for Sure Dorothy Allison, 1996-08-01 Bastard Out of Carolina nominated for the 1992 National Book Award for fiction introduced Dorothy Allison as one of the most passionate and gifted writers of her generation. Now in Two or Three Things I Know for Sure she takes a probing look at her family's history to give us a lyrical complex memoir that explores how the gossip of one generation can become legends for the next. Illustrated with photographs from the author's personal collection Two or Three Things I Know for Sure tells the story of the Gibson women, sisters, cousins, daughters, and aunts, and the men who loved them, often abused them, and nonetheless shared their destinies. With luminous clarity Allison explores how desire surprises and what power feels like to a young girl as she confronts abuse. As always, Dorothy Allison is provocative, confrontational, and brutally honest. Two or Three Things I Know for Sure, steeped in the hard-won wisdom of experience, expresses the strength of her unique vision with beauty and eloquence.

The Emperor Has No Clothes Tema Okun, 2010-10-01 The Emperor Has No Clothes: Teaching About Race and Racism to People Who Don't Want to Know offers theoretical grounding and practical approaches for leaders and teachers interested in effectively addressing racism and other oppressive constructs. The book draws both on the author's extensive experience teaching about race and racism in classroom and community settings and from the theory and practice of a wide range of educators, activists, and researchers committed to social justice. The first chapter looks at the toxic consequences of our western cultural insistence on profit, binary thinking, and individualism to establish the theoretical framework for teaching about race and racism. Chapter two investigates privileged resistance, offering a psycho-social history of denial, particularly as a product of racist culture. Chapter three reviews the research on the construction and reconstruction of dominant culture, both historically and now, in order to establish sound, strategic approaches that educators, teachers, facilitators, and activists can take as we work together to move from a culture of profit and fear to one of shared hope and love. Chapter four lays out the stages of a process that supports teaching about racist, white supremacy culture, explaining how students can be taken through an iterative process of relationship-building, analysis, planning, action, and reflection. The final chapter borrows from the brilliant, brave, and incisive writer Dorothy Allison to discuss the things the author knows for sure about how to teach people to see that which we have been conditioned to fear knowing. The chapter concludes with how to encourage and support collective and collaborative action as a critical goal of the process.

The Advocate, 1995-09-05 The Advocate is a lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, LGBT monthly newsmagazine. Established in 1967, it is the oldest continuing LGBT publication in the United States.

The History of Southern Women's Literature Carolyn Perry, Mary Weeks-Baxter, 2002-03-01 Many of America's foremost and most beloved authors are also southern and female: Mary Chesnut, Kate Chopin, Ellen Glasgow, Zora Neale Hurston, Eudora Welty, Harper Lee, Maya Angelou, Anne Tyler, Alice Walker, and Lee Smith, to name several. Designating a writer as southern if her work reflects the region's grip on her life, Carolyn Perry and Mary Louise Weeks have produced an invaluable guide to the richly diverse and enduring tradition of southern women's literature. Their comprehensive history, the first of its kind in a relatively young field, extends from the pioneer woman to the career woman, embracing black and white, poor and privileged, urban and Appalachian perspectives and experiences. The History of Southern Women's Literature allows readers both to explore individual authors and to follow the developing arc of various genres across time: Conduct books and slave narratives, Civil War diaries and letters, the antebellum, postbellum, and modern novel, autobiography and memoirs, poetry, magazine and newspaper writing; these and more receive close attention. Over seventy contributors are represented here, and their essays discuss a wealth of women's issues: from four centuries, race, urbanization and feminism, the myth of southern womanhood, preset images and assigned social roles, from the belle to the mammy, and real life behind the facade of meeting others' expectations, poverty and the labor movement, responses to Uncle Tom's Cabin and the influence of Gone with the Wind. The history of southern women's literature tells, ultimately, the story of the search for freedom within an insidious tradition. To quote Ellen Glasgow: "This teeming volume validates the deep contributions and pleasures of an impressive body of writing and marks a major achievement in women's and literary studies." Sharing Breath, Sheila Batacharya, Yuk-Lin Renita Wong, 2018-10-31.

Treating bodies as more than discursive in social research can feel out of place in academia. As a result, embodiment studies remain on the outside of academic knowledge construction and critical scholarship. However, embodiment scholars suggest that investigations into the profound division created by privileging the mind/intellect over the body/spirit are integral to the project of decolonization. The field of embodiment theorizes bodies as knowledgeable in ways that include but are not solely cognitive. The contributors to this collection suggest developing embodied ways of teaching, learning, and knowing through embodied experiences such as yoga, mindfulness, illness, and trauma. Although the contributors challenge Western educational frameworks from within and beyond academic settings, they also acknowledge and draw attention to the incommensurability between decolonization and aspects of social justice projects in education. By addressing this tension ethically and deliberately, the contributors engage thoughtfully with decolonization and make a substantial and sometimes unsettling contribution to critical studies in education. Engaging Teachers, Betty Shockley Bisplinghoff, JoBeth Allen, 1998.

Classroom teachers from across the grades worked individually and collaboratively to explore the issues of time, methods, and relationship in an effort to develop meaningful and organic research practices. Talking Book Topics, 1997.

The Complete Concordance to Shakespeare, Mary Cowden Clarke, 1886. Year Book, 1928. Proceedings of the National Association of Elocutionists, National Association of Elocutionists (U.S.), 1901. Available Means, Joy Ritchie, Kate Ronald, 2001-07-12.

Sappho's prediction came true: fragments of work by the earliest woman writer in Western literate history have, in fact, survived into the 21st century. But not without peril. Sappho's writing remains only in fragments, partly due to the passage of time but mostly as a result of systematic efforts to silence women's voices. Sappho's hopeful boast captures the mission of this anthology: to gather together women engaged in the art of persuasion across differences of race, class, sexual orientation historical and physical locations in order to remember that the rhetorical tradition indeed includes them
