Too Much To Ask Black Women In The Era Of Integration:

Too Much to Ask Elizabeth Higginbotham, 2001 Higginbotham explores the experiences of the first generation of black women to integrate northern U S colleges and universities examining how social class family upbringing and other factors plays into their expectations Black Women in the Ivory Tower, 1850-1954 Stephanie Y. Evans, 2016-12-01 Evans chronicles the stories of African American women who struggled for and won access to formal education beginning in 1850 when Lucy Stanton a student at Oberlin College earned the first college diploma conferred on an African American woman In the century between the Civil War and the civil rights movement a critical increase in black women s educational attainment mirrored unprecedented national growth in American education Evans reveals how black women demanded space as students and asserted their voices as educators despite such barriers as violence discrimination and oppressive campus policies contributing in significant ways to higher education in the United States She argues that their experiences ideas and practices can inspire contemporary educators to create an intellectual democracy in which all people have a voice Among those Evans profiles are Anna Julia Cooper who was born enslaved yet ultimately earned a doctoral degree from the Sorbonne and Mary McLeod Bethune founder of Bethune Cookman College Exposing the hypocrisy in American assertions of democracy and discrediting European notions of intellectual superiority Cooper argued that all human beings had a right to grow Bethune believed that education is the right of all citizens in a democracy Both women s philosophies raised questions of how human and civil rights are intertwined with educational access scholarly research pedagogy and community service This first complete educational and intellectual history of black women carefully traces quantitative research explores black women s collegiate memories and identifies significant geographic patterns in America s institutional development Evans reveals historic perspectives patterns and philosophies in academia that will be an important reference for scholars of gender race and education

Reproducing Racism Wendy Leo Moore, 2008 Law schools serve as gateway institutions into one of the most politically powerful social fields the profession of law Reproducing Racism is an examination of white privilege and power in two elite United States law schools Moore examines how racial structures racialized everyday practices and racial discourses function in law schools Utilizing an ethnographic lens Moore explores the historical construction of elite law schools as institutions that reinforce white privilege and therefore naturalize white political social and economic power

Racial Theories in Social Science Sean Elias, Joe R. Feagin, 2016-04-14 Racial Theories in Social Science A Systemic Racism Critique provides a critique of the white racial framing and lack of systemic racism analysis prevalent in past and present mainstream race theory As this book demonstrates mainstream racial analysis and social analysis more generally remain stunted and uncritical because of this unhealthy white framing of knowledge and evasion or downplaying of institutional structural and systemic racism In response to ineffective social science analyses of racial matters this book presents a counter approach systemic racism theory The foundation of this theoretical perspective lies in the critical insights and perspectives of African Americans and other people of color who have long challenged biased white framed perspectives and practices and the racially oppressive and exclusionary institutions and social systems created by whites over several centuries

Black Women in the Academy Marshanda Ann Latrice Smith, 2002

Emerging Intersections Bonnie Thornton Dill, Ruth Enid Zambrana, 2009-01-01

The United States is known as a melting pot yet this mix tends to be volatile and contributes to a long history of oppression racism and bigotry Emerging Intersections an anthology of ten previously unpublished essays looks at the problems of inequality and oppression from new angles and promotes intersectionality as an interpretive tool that can be utilized to better understand the ways in which race class gender ethnicity and other dimensions of difference shape our lives today The book showcases innovative contributions that expand our understanding of how inequality affects people of color demonstrates the ways public policies reinforce existing systems of inequality and shows how research and teaching using an intersectional perspective compels scholars to become agents of change within institutions By offering practical applications for using intersectional knowledge Emerging Intersections will help bring us one step closer to achieving positive institutional change and social justice
