Jason Potts,1999 In this paper I show how there are two fundamental spaces over which to construct economic theory an integral space a field R and a non integral space a graph S I then argue that the body of heterodox critique of the neoclassical and neowalrasian economics over the course of this century can be reduced to a single simple point namely that the geometry of economic space is not a field but a network of incompletely connected elements The more general case is a non integral geometry and it is this that underpins the rubric of heterodox economics as and evolutionary microeconomics
