Transcultural Identity Constructions Changing World:

Transcultural Identity Constructions in a Changing World Irene Gilseman Nordin, Chatarina Edfeldt, Lung-Lung Hu, Herbert Jonsson, 2016 In a broad outlook on the concept of transculturality 19 authors and specialists of diverse origins consider how transculturality can help us understand the world The contributions deal with literary texts movies drama and visual art The chapters cover themes such as multiculturalism stereotypes movement or bilingual writing Transcultural Humanities in South Asia Waseem Anwar, Nosheen Yousaf, 2022-03-15 This volume looks at the implications of transcultural humanities in South Asia which is becoming a crucial area of research within literary and cultural studies The volume also explores various complex critical dimensions of transculturation its indeterminate periodisation its temporal and spatial nonlinearity its territoriality and intersectionality Drawing on contributors from around the globe the entries look at literature and poetics theory and praxis borders and nations politics Partition gender and sexuality the environment representations in art and pedagogy and the transcultural classroom Using key examples and case studies the contributors look at current developments in transcultural and transnational standpoints and their possible educational outcomes A broad and comprehensive collection as it also speaks about the value of the humanities and the significance of South Asian contexts Transcultural Humanities in South Asia will be of particular interest to those working on postcolonial studies literary studies Asian studies and more Transcultural Insights into Contemporary Irish Literature and Society María Amor Barros-del Río, 2024-07-19 Transcultural Insights into Contemporary Irish Literature and Society examines the transcultural patterns that have been enriching Irish literature since the twentieth century and engages with the ongoing dialogue between contemporary Irish literature and society Driven by the growing interest in transcultural studies in the humanities this volume provides an insightful analysis of how Irish literature handles the delicate balance between authenticity and folklore and uniformisation and diversity in an increasingly globalised world Following a diachronic approach the volume includes critical readings of canonical Irish literature as an uncharted exchange of intercultural dialogues The text also explores the external and internal transcultural traits present in recent Irish literature and its engagement with social injustice and activism and discusses location and mobility as vehicles for cultural transfer and the advancement of the women's movement A final section also includes an examination of literary expressions of hybridisation diversity and assimilation to scrutinise negotiations of new transcultural identities In the light of the compiled contributions the volume ends with a revisitation of Irish studies in a world in which national identity has become increasingly problematic This volume presents new insights into the fictional engagement of contemporary Irish literature with political social and economic issues and its efforts to accommodate the local and the global resulting in a reshaping of national collective imaginaries We Have Always Been Transcultural: The Arts as an Example Wolfgang Welsch, 2024-06-17 Wolfgang Welsch demonstrates for the first time that transculturality the mixed constitution of cultures is by no means only a characteristic of the present but has de facto determined the composition of cultures since time immemorial The historical transculturality is demonstrated using examples from the arts While transculturality was often viewed with reservation where political social or psychological levels were at stake it was rather welcomed and appreciated in the field of art The book therefore demonstrates the historical prevalence of transculturality via all areas of art and does so with respect to all cultures and continents of our world Educational

Contexts Malcah Effron, Brian Johnson, 2017-02-15 The Function of Evil Across Disciplinary Contexts explores answers to two important questions about the age old theme of evil is there any use in using the concept of evil in cultural psychological or other secular evaluations of the world and its productions Most importantly if there is what might these functions be By looking across several disciplines and analyzing evil as it is referenced across a broad spectrum of phenomena this work demonstrates the varying ways that we interact with the ethical dilemma as academics as citizens and as people The work draws from authors in different fields including history literary and film studies philosophy and psychology and from around the world to provide an analysis of evil in such topics as deeply canonical as Beowulf and Shakespeare to subjects as culturally resonant as Stephen King Captain America or the War on Terror By bringing together this otherwise disparate collection of scholarship this collection reveals that discussions of evil across disciplines have always been questions of how cultures represent that which they find socially abhorrent This work thus opens the conversation about evil outside of field specific limitations simultaneously demonstrating the assumptions that undergird the manner by which such a conversation proceeds
