Translation Adaptation And Transformation Continuum Advances In Translation:

Translation, Adaptation and Transformation Laurence Raw, 2012-01-12 Examines what adaptation and translation are and moves towards theorizing both as coherent disciplines Intersemiotic Perspectives on Emotions Susan Petrilli, Meng Ji, 2022-07-29 This edited volume explores emotion and its translations through the global world from a variety of different perspectives as a personal socio cultural ideological ethical and political even business investment in the latest phases of globalisation Emotions are powerful in engaging or disengaging individuals communities the masses peoples and nations with distinct linguistic and cultural backgrounds for good but also for evil All depends on how emotions are interpreted that is translated in words or in facts in any case in signs Semiotic reflection on emotions and their interpretation translation is thus of essential importance An adequate understanding of emotional phenomena and their complexities calls for different views which together reveal and illustrate inconsistencies in our modern life The contributors argue that an investigation of types of emotional translation linguistic and non linguistic audio visual theatrical literary racial legal architectural political and so forth can contribute to a better understanding of emotions and how they are exploited to engender injustice unfairness absurdity in contemporary life Nonetheless emotions are also exploited and oriented and this is the intent of our authors to favour the development of sustainable multicultural societies and facilitate living together A major reference for students and scholars in translation semiotics language and cultural studies around the world Exploring Intersemiotic Translation Models Haoxuan Zhang, 2023-06-29 This volume sets out a new paradigm in intersemiotic translation research drawing on the films of Ang Lee to problematize the notion of films as the simple binary of transmission between the verbal and non verbal The book surveys existing research as a jumping off point from which to consider the role of audiovisual dimensions going beyond the focus on the verbal as understood in Jakobsonian intersemiotic translation The volume outlines a methodology comprising a system of various models which draw on both translation studies and film studies frameworks with each model illustrated with examples from Ang Lee's Crouching Tiger Hidden Dragon Lust Caution and Life of Pi In situating the discussion within the work of a director whose own work straddles East and West and mediates between cultures and semiotic systems Zhang argues for an understanding of intersemiotic translation in which films are not simply determined by verbal source material but through the process of intersemiotic translators mediating non verbal quality determining materials into the final film The volume looks ahead to implications for translation and film research more broadly as well as other audiovisual media This book will appeal to scholars interested in translation studies film studies media studies and cultural studies in general Global Trends in Translator and Interpreter Training Séverine Hubscher-Davidson, Michal Borodo, 2012-06-07 This book looks at translator and interpreter training focusing on mediation and culture in a global context It updates numerous research currents in translator and interpreter education by situating them in relation to broader curricular and technological discussions Particular attention is given to the way in which translator and interpreter training relates both to other topics on university curricula and to recent developments in the professional sphere of language mediation. These include the new European standard for translation services and the ethical training of interpreters. The significant impact of new technologies in translation is also studied. These discussions take place in the context of an increasingly mature and sophisticated theoretical environment of translator and interpreter training research, one which recognizes the implications of discourses such as constructivism and objectives oriented design for new pedagogies in the field.

Young Scholars' Developments in Philology Yulia Lobina, 2018-10-12 Culture as a way of bringing meaning into life is maintained through discourse. In search of factors influencing discourse effectiveness, this volume brings together young scholars from Russia, France, Pakistan, Slovakia, and Lebanon to focus on variation as an essential feature of meaning-producing communication in its multiple aspects and settings. The book is based on papers presented during online sessions on cross-cultural discourse, literary analysis, and language education of the 7th International Young Researchers Conference: Studying and Teaching Philology, held in Ulyanovsk, Russia, in 2017. In Part I, Irina Zhuchkova explores variation in academic discourse on discourse. In the first two chapters of Part II, Hibah Shabkhez discusses the interaction of various culture codes and transformations of a literary character travelling from one fictional world into another, and in the next chapter, Hibah Shabkhez, Ibreez Shabkhez, and Azka Mahboob analyse the divergence of stances taken on the same character by its creator and the readers. In the final chapters of this section, Ibreez Shabkhez and Maksim Duleba uncover mechanisms of expressing conflicting stances with the result of marginalising discourse participants, including the stance taker himself. Roksolana Povoroznyuk, in Part III, examines the interpreter's choices in mediating cross-cultural literary discourse, concentrating on paratranslational techniques and terminological variation, both of which involve a lot of translatorial freedom and responsibility. Finally, Part IV, by Christelle Frangieh Fenianos, addresses the issue of the second language learner's freedom in choosing the ways of acquiring vocabulary, which serves as a gate to the world of cross-cultural communication. This book will be of interest to researchers, postgraduate students, and advanced undergraduates working in the fields of philology, discourse analysis, literature, and translation studies, and language acquisition.

Corpus-Based Translation Studies Alet Kruger, Kim Wallmach, Jeremy Munday, 2011-06-16 This is a collection of leading research within corpus-based translation studies. CTS is now recognized as a major paradigm that has transformed analysis within the discipline of translation studies. It can be defined as the use of corpus linguistic technologies to inform and elucidate the translation process, something that is increasingly accessible through advances in computer technology. The book pulls together a wide range of perspectives from respected authors in the field. All the chapters deal with the implementation of the basic concepts and methodologies, providing the reader with practical tools for their own research. The book addresses key issues in corpus analysis, including online corpora and corpus construction, and covers both translation and interpreting. The authors look at various languages and utilize a variety of approaches, qualitative and quantitative, reflecting the breadth of the field and providing many valuable examples of the methodology at work

The Translator's Visibility Larisa Cercel, Alice Leal, 2025-05-05 This collection illuminates the epistemological and philosophical underpinnings of Lawrence Venuti's seminal The Translator's Invisibility extending these conversations through a contemporary lens of epistemic justice while also exploring its manifestations and transposing it to different disciplines and contexts The volume is divided into five parts The opening chapters provide contemporary foundations and a clear epistemological apparatus to conceptualise the debate on the translator's visibility and explore some of the philosophical underpinnings of the debate The following chapters offer analysis of some contemporary manifestations and illustrations of the translator's visibility among translators and translation thinkers and restage the debate in diverse contexts such as in European Union identity politics and Chinese Buddhist translation and disciplines such as film studies A final chapter takes stock of the impact of machine translation to critically reflect on the future of translation and translator studies This book will be of interest to students and scholars in translation and interpreting studies philosophy cultural studies and literary studies as well as the humanities more broadly
