Post-process Theory Thomas Kent, 1999 Breaking with the still dominant process tradition in composition studies post process theory or at least the different incarnations of post process theory discussed by the contributors represented in this collection of original essays endorses the fundamental idea that no codifiable or generalizable writing process exists or could exist Post process theorists hold that the practice of writing cannot be captured by a generalized process or a big theory Most post process theorists hold three assumptions about the act of writing writing is public writing is interpretive and writing is situated The first assumption is the commonsensical claim that writing constitutes a public interchange By interpretive act post process theorists generally mean something as broad as making sense of and not exclusively the ability to move from one code to another To interpret means more than merely to paraphrase it means to enter into a relationship of understanding with other language users And finally because writing is a public act that requires interpretive interaction with others writers always write from some position or some place Writers are never nowhere they are situated Leading theorists and widely published scholars in the field contributors are Nancy Blyler John Clifford Barbara Couture Nancy C DeJoy Sidney I Dobrin Elizabeth Ervin Helen Ewald David Foster Debra Journet Thomas Kent Gary A Olson Joseph Petraglia George Pullman David Russell and John Schilb

Otto E. Miller, Plaintiff-Respondent, Against Fred W. Smythe, Defendant-Appellant, The Routledge Handbook of Rewriting in Byzantium Juan Signes Codoñer, Martin Hinterberger, Inmaculada Pérez Martín, 2025-12-09 The Routledge Handbook of Rewriting in Byzantium presents an overview of the various rewriting processes involved in the production of Byzantine literature Due to the lack of recent systematic research on the totality of Byzantine literature which embraces a long millennium of texts the fluid concept of rewriting here studied for the first time in all its complexity serves as a unifying criterion for understanding the literary task of the Byzantines Literature in Byzantium went well beyond the problems of language and genre and was adapted according to the audience and the expectations of the readers which varied greatly in different periods With contributions from 25 scholars this book analyses and discusses a variety of topics including the rewriting of the past modes of persuasion as a driving force behind rewriting changing muses the adaptation of hagiography to changing patterns of behaviour updating of technical texts and the necessity for theological and philosophical reinterpretation of inherited texts This book will appeal to students and scholars alike interested in Byzantine literature culture and literary methods The Writing Process David Hatcher, David P. Hatcher, Lane Goddard, 2005-03 Writing is more than a way to record sentences we've already shaped in our heads. As someone famously said, that's just typing. This book will help you develop an approach that includes the thinking part of writing. A series of logical steps will lead you from idea or assignment to finished written work. It answers some basic questions that every writer faces: How do I get organized? What do I do first? What next? How do I evaluate my drafts? How about word choice? When have I said enough? How should I end? Designed to help almost any writer, The Writing Process is also an excellent tool for teachers of writing as well as for parents who want to give their youngsters an extra boost.
