Eurocentrism at the Margins Lutfi

Sunar, 2016-05-05 Eurocentrism remains a prevailing feature of Western dominated social scientific perspectives tending to ignore alternative views originating outside the West and thus maintaining a form of scholarly hegemony As such there is an urgent need to reconsider Eurocentrism in social science to ask whether it constitutes an obstacle to understanding social problems and whether it is possible to go beyond Eurocentrism in the construction of reliable more universal knowledge At the same time certain questions persist particularly with regard to the extent to which recent revisionist challenges have really contributed to the surmounting of Eurocentric domination and whether the constant repetition of the concept serves to reinforce it This book engages with the central problems of Eurocentrism in the social sciences bringing together the work of scholars from around the world to offer a critique of this perspective from both European and non European positions thus shedding light on the binaries that often come into being in debates in this field Thematically organised and addressing a range of questions including Eurocentrism in historical studies in the understanding of religion and civilisation and in the study of international relations as well as in the institutionalisation and professionalisation of research and discourses on modernisation in the Middle East Eurocentrism at the Margins will appeal to scholars with interests in knowledge production and circulation and Eurocentrism and post colonialism in the social sciences

The Elusive What and the Problematic How ,2008-01-01 For the authors in this book there can be no valid excuses for ignorance in any aspect of education as theory practice That is If we come to learn that all educational problems involve knowledge of complex systems and processes then quick simple solutions should not be an educator s first or only expedient option If all education requires a measure of cultural and contextual understandings then uniform standardized programs and lessons will not meet the needs of all children or communities If educational change takes time and strenuous efforts to take hold then why do we abandon and restart reforms efforts year after year If educational practices are best performed by those closest to the problems then why do we not prepare and continuously develop teachers and administrators to grow intellectually and politically to make wise decisions If who a person is culturally and intellectually shapes who they are as educators then why are our recruitment selection induction and retention policies not influenced by this assumption If today s best practices have not taken careful note of successes in the past then how do we validly measure best practices in use today If one time standardized test scores are not adequate measures of a person s worth a teacher s competency or a school s value to its community then why do our policies and practices say otherwise Unfortunately our ignorance of the what and the how of education and educational leadership has persisted across contexts and history Why This book provides both theoretical and practical answers to these elusive and problematic issues
