The Zero Hour Glasnost And Soviet Cinema In Transition:

The Zero Hour Andrew Horton, Michael Brashinsky, 1992 Now faced with the zero hour created by a new freedom of expression and the dramatic breakup of the Soviet Union Soviet cinema has recently become one of the most interesting in the world aesthetically as well as politically How have Soviet filmmakers responded to the challenges of glasnost To answer this question the American film scholar Andrew Horton and the Soviet critic Michael Brashinsky offer the first book length study of the rapid changes in Soviet cinema that have been taking place since 1985 What emerges from their collaborative dialogue is not only a valuable work of film criticism but also a fascinating study of contemporary Soviet culture in general Horton and Brashinsky examine a wide variety of films from BOMZH initials standing for homeless drifter through Taxi Blues and the glasnost blockbuster Little Vera to the Latvian documentary Is It Easy to Be Young and the new wave productions of the Wild Kazakh boys The authors argue that the medium that once served the Party became a major catalyst for the deconstruction of socialism especially through documentary filmmaking Special attention is paid to how filmmakers from 1985 through 1990 represent the newly discovered past of the pre glasnost era and how they depict troubled youth and conflicts over the role of women in society The book also emphasizes the evolving uses of comedy and satire and the incorporation of genre film techniques into a new popular cinema An intriguing discussion of films of Georgia Estonia Latvia Lithuania and Kazakhstan ends the work Russian Critics on the Cinema of Glasnost Michael Brashinsky, Andrew Horton, 1994-09-30 Russian Critics on the Cinema of Glasnost gathers together 23 essays written by some of Russia's most astute commentators of film and culture Written during the 1980s and published in English for the first time this collection includes reviews of films such as Little Vera and Taxi Blues which were critically hailed in the West Their comments not only illuminate important aspects of Russian filmmaking during this decade as importantly they capture a sense of a society in flux during the waning years of Communism as well as the larger context within which Glasnost cinema and culture developed This collection provides insight into the successes and shortcomings of Glasnost as captured in film for a Western audience

The Zero Hour Andrew Horton, Michael Brashinsky, 1992-07-15 This study of the rapid changes in Soviet cinema that have been taking place since 1985 examines the response of filmmakers faced with the zero hour created by a new freedom of expression and the dramatic break up of the Soviet Union Russian War Films Denise Jeanne Youngblood, 2007 A panoramic survey of nearly a century of Russian films on wars and wartime from World War I to more recent conflicts in Afghanistan and Chechnya with heavy emphasis on films pertaining to World War II The European Cinema Reader

Russia and its Other(s) on Film S. Hutchings, 2008-04-25 Russia's interactions with the West have been a perennial theme of Slavic Studies and of Russian culture and politics Likewise representations of Russia have shaped the identities of many western cultures No longer providing the Evil Empire of 20th American popular consciousness images of Russia have more recently bifurcated along two streams that of the impoverished refugee and that of the sinister mafia gang Focusing on film as an engine of intercultural communication this is the first book to explore mutual perceptions of the foreign Other in the cinema of Russia and the West during and after communism The book s structure reflects both sides of this fascinating dialogue Part 1 covers Russian Soviet cinematic representations of otherness and Part 2 treats western representations of Russia and the Soviet Union An extensive Introduction sets the dialogue in a theoretical context The contributors include leading film scholars from the USA Europe and Russia

Revolt of the Filmmakers George Faraday, 2010-11-01 One of the many unforeseen consequences of the fall of the Soviet Union has been the sudden collapse of the domestic film industry probably the most privileged mass cultural medium of the Soviet Union By the mid 1980s some 150 feature films were produced annually for audiences numbering nearly four billion per year Since 1991 however cinema attendance has plummeted by a factor of at least one hundred and the remnants of the once huge audiences now watch an overwhelming number of imported mostly American films Revolt of the Filmmakers is the first account of Russia s film industry since this disastrous decline According to Faraday who was film correspondent for The Moscow Times during the mid 1990s the turning point came during the years of perestroika when Russian filmmakers achieved an unprecedented degree of freedom from managerial control They immediately used their newfound liberty to dismantle the industry s central administrative structures in the name of artistic autonomy Filmmakers were at last free to follow their own aesthetic criteria and many began to orient their work entirely toward critical acclaim at festivals But the unintended result of this revolution in the name of art was the alienation of the mass Russian audience Today some filmmakers are attempting to regain a mass audience by celebrating and mythologizing national cultural identity but the Russian film industry has never fully recovered from the revolt of the filmmakers For this book Faraday has interviewed Russian filmgoers critics directors and other industry insiders Among those directors whose work he considers are Alexei Balabanov The Castle Nikita Mikhalkov Burnt by the Sun Karen Shakhnazarov American Daughter Pyotr Todorovsky Moscow Country Nights and Marina Tsursumia Only Death Comes for Sure He also draws upon documentary evidence including the Russian press and the diaries of Andrei Tarkovsky The Sacrifice Solaris Few predicted that the loosening of state ideological and institutional controls would threaten the survival of Russia s once mighty film industry Even today Lenin s often quoted if apocryphal declaration that cinema is the most important of all the arts remains emblazoned over the gateway to Mosfilm studios but its relevance is in doubt at the start of a new millennium

Film and Identity in Kazakhstan Rico Isaacs, 2018-02-07 Cinema and nationalism are two fundamentally modern phenomena but how have films shaped our understanding of the creation the imagining of Central Asian nations Here Rico Isaacs uses cinema as an analytical lens to explore how the Kazakh national identity has been constructed and contested Drawing on an analysis of Kazakh films from the last century and featuring new interviews with directors and critics involved in the Central Asian film industry his book traces the construction of nationalism within Kazakh cinema from the country's inception as a Soviet Republic to a modern independent nation Isaacs identifies four narratives since the collapse of the Soviet Union a warrior like ethnic narrative rooted in the 18th Century struggles against the Mongolian Oirat tribes a civic inspired narrative cemented in the Stalinist deportations of the 1930s and 40s a religious narrative founded within the mystic and philosophical religion of Tengrism and the cult of the Sky God and a socio economic narrative which roots Kazakh nationhood and identity in contemporary social divisions the lived day to day experiences of ordinary citizens and the struggles they face with authority These last two tropes demonstrate how cinema has emerged as a site of dissent against the country's authoritarian regime under President Nazarbayev Film and Identity in Kazakhstan advances our understanding of Kazakhstan and nationalism by demonstrating the multiple and inessential character of each and illustrates the important role of cinema in contesting political power in the post Soviet space

Blockbuster History in the New Russia Stephen M. Norris, 2012-10-19 Seeking to rebuild the Russian film industry after its post Soviet collapse directors and producers sparked a revival of nationalist and patriotic sentiment by applying Hollywood techniques to themes drawn from Russian history Unsettled by the government's move toward market capitalism Russians embraced these historical blockbusters packing the American style multiplexes that sprouted across the country Stephen M Norris examines the connections among cinema politics economics history and patriotism in the creation of blockbuster history the adaptation of an American cinematic style to Russian historical epics
