Aging and Hearing Karen S. Helfer, Edward L.

Bartlett, Arthur N. Popper, Richard R. Fay, 2020-10-20 Since the first edition of the Aging Auditory System volume in 2009

there has been a tremendous amount of research in basic translational and clinical sciences related to age related changes in auditory system structure and function The new research has been driven by technical and conceptual advances in auditory neuroscience at multiple levels ranging from cells to cognition The chapters in Aging and Hearing Causes and Consequences span a broad range of topics and appeal to a relatively wide audience Our goal in this volume is to put together state of the art discussions about new developments in aging research that will appeal to a broad audience serving as an important update on the current state of research on the aging auditory system This update includes not only the recent research but also consideration of how human and animal studies or translational and basic research are working in tandem to advance the field This new edition is a natural complement to the previous SHAR volume on the aging auditory system edited by

Gordon Salant Frisina Popper and Fay The target audience for this volume will be graduate students researchers and academic faculty from a range of disciplines psychology hearing science audiology physiology neuroscience engineering It also will appeal to clinical audiologists as well as to researchers working in the hearing device industry Individuals who attend conferences sponsored by the Association for Research in Otolaryngology Acoustical Society of America Auditory Cognitive Neuroscience Society American Auditory Society Society for Neuroscience American Speech Language and Hearing Association and the American Academy of Audiology among others are likely to find value in the volume How and Why Does Spatial-Hearing Ability Differ among Listeners? What Is the Role of Learning and Multisensory Interactions? Guillaume Andéol, Brian D. Simpson, Ewan A. Macpherson, 2016-08-29 Spatial hearing ability has been found to vary widely across listeners A survey of the existing auditory space perception literature suggests that three main types of factors may account for this variability physical factors e g acoustical characteristics related to sound localization cues perceptual factors e g sensory cognitive processing perceptual learning multisensory interactions and methodological factors e g differences in stimulus presentation methods across studies However the extent to which these and perhaps other still unidentified factors actually contribute to the observed variability in spatial hearing across individuals with normal hearing or within special populations e g hearing impaired listeners remains largely unknown Likewise the role of perceptual learning and multisensory interactions in the emergence of a multimodal but unified representation of auditory space is still an active topic of research A better characterization and understanding of the determinants of inter individual variability in spatial hearing and of its relationship with perceptual learning and multisensory interactions would have numerous benefits In particular it would enhance the design of rehabilitative devices and of human machine interfaces involving auditory or multimodal space perception such as virtual auditory multimodal displays in aeronautics or navigational aids for the visually impaired For this Research Topic we have considered manuscripts that present new methods or review existing methods for the study of inter individual differences present new data or review existing data concerning acoustical features relevant for explaining inter individual differences in sound localization performance present new or review existing psychophysical or neurophysiological findings concerning spatial hearing and or auditory perceptual learning and or multisensory interactions in humans normal or impaired young or older listeners or other species discuss the influence of inter individual differences on the design and use of assistive listening devices rehabilitation or human machine interfaces involving spatial hearing or multimodal perception of space ergonomics Hearing Science Fundamentals, Third Edition Norman J. Lass, Jeremy J. Donai, 2025-06-02 Hearing Science Fundamentals Third Edition introduces the basic concepts in hearing science in an easy to understand format for undergraduate and graduate level students This textbook includes a wide variety of student friendly features designed to facilitate learning and instructor resources for seamless integration to the course The text is divided into four clear sections to cover everything from the physics of sound to the anatomy and physiology of the auditory pathway and beyond The textbook begins by delving into the basics of acoustics and digital signal processing DSP In the next section readers will find full coverage of the basic anatomy and physiology of the auditory mechanism The third section contains eight chapters on psychoacoustics and how sound is perceived via the auditory pathways The final section discusses pathologies of the auditory mechanisms Multiple disorders from each portion of the auditory system are described in detail These chapters are intended to provide an introduction to auditory pathologies to support future coursework in audiology and related fields New to the Third Edition Inclusion of additional Clinical Notes and computational examples in text Discussion topics provided at the end of each chapter to assist with student understanding of chapter material Additional topics included in multiple chapters such as information on auditory scene analysis navigating the auditory scene and the various decibal scales dB SL dB HL etc Links to helpful videos to enhance student understanding of topics from each chapter Key Features Learning Objectives and Key Terms at the beginning of each chapter prepare the student for the chapter contents More than 150 anatomical and line illustrations aid understanding of important technical concepts Q A boxes reinforce important information presented in the text Suggested readings at the end of each chapter for further clarification and study of the technical contents of each chapter A Glossary of important terms

Understanding the Cochlea Geoffrey A. Manley,Anthony W. Gummer,Arthur N. Popper,Richard R. Fay,2017-08-30 This SHAR volume serves to expand supplement and update the original Cochlea volume in the series The book aims to highlight the power of diverse modern approaches in cochlear research by focusing on advances in those fields over the last two decades It also provides insights into where cochlear research is going including new hearing prostheses for the deaf that will most likely soon enter the phase of clinical trials The book will appeal to a broad interdisciplinary readership including neuroscientists and clinicians in addition to the more specific auditory community
