Constructing 'Pakistan' through Knowledge Production in International Relations and Area Studies Ahmed W. Waheed, 2019-11-02. This book analyses the discourse on Pakistan by exploring the knowledge production processes through which the International Relations community, Asian and South Asian area study centres and think tanks construct Pakistan's identity. This book does not attempt to trace how Pakistan has been historically defined, explained or understood by the International Relations interpretive communities or to supplant these understandings with the author's version of what Pakistan is. Instead, this study focuses on investigating how the identity of Pakistan is fixed or stabilized via practices of the interpretive communities. In other words, this book attempts to address the following questions: How is the knowledge on Pakistan produced discursively? How is this knowledge represented in the writings on Pakistan? What are the conditions under which it is possible to make authoritative claims about Pakistan?

Activism and Agency in India Supurna Banerjee, 2017-05-08. This book is the first interdisciplinary and intersectional work examining the nature of victimhood and agency among women workers on tea plantations in North Bengal, India. The author views tea plantations as social spaces rather than only economic units of production. Focusing on the lived experiences of the workers from the perspective of their multiple identities including caste, gender, ethnicity, religion, location and kinship, the author uses the everyday as the entry point for understanding the exercise of agency, the negotiations of different spaces, gender roles and norms therein as well as acts of protest.
