Travels In West Africa National Geographic Adventure Classics:

Travels in West Africa Mary Kingsley, 2015-08-27 A remarkable account by a pioneering woman explorer who was described by Rudyard Kipling as the bravest woman of all my knowledge Until 1893 Mary Kingsley lived the typical life of a single Victorian woman tending to sick relatives and keeping house for her brother However on the death of her parents she undertook an extraordinary decision with no prior knowledge of the region she set out alone to West Africa to pursue her anthropological interests and collect botanical specimens Her subsequent book published in 1897 is a testament to understatement and humour few explorers made less of the hardships and dangers experienced while travelling including unaccompanied treks through dangerous jungles and encounters with deadly animals Travels in West Africa would challenge as well as reinforce contemporary Victorian prejudices about Africa and also made invaluable contributions to the fields of botany and anthropology Above all however it has stood the test of time as a gripping classic travel narrative by a woman whose sense of adventure and fascination with Africa transformed her whole life This Penguin edition includes a fascinating introduction by Dr Toby Green examining Victorian attitudes to Africa along with explanatory notes by Lynnette Turner Mary Kingsley was born in north London in 1862 the daughter of the traveller writer and physician George Kingsley and his former housekeeper Mary Bailey Her education was scant while her younger brother Charley was sent away to school she stayed at home In 1886 the family moved to Cambridge where Kingsley remained until 1892 caring for her bedridden mother Following the deaths of her parents Kingsley embarked on a voyage to West Africa in August 1893 with the object of studying native religion and law and collecting zoological specimens In December 1894 she undertook a second trip to the region during which she became the first woman to climb West Africa's highest mountain Mount Cameroon On returning home eleven months later she wrote Travels in West Africa which was published in 1897 and was followed by West African Studies in 1899 Kingsley made one final trip to Africa enlisting as a volunteer nurse in South Africa during the Boer War She had only been there for two months when she developed typhoid fever and died on 3rd June 1900 before being buried at sea in accordance with her wishes Lynnette Turner is Associate Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Edge Hill University Toby Green is Lecturer in Lusophone African History and Culture at Kings College London His book The Rise of the Trans Atlantic Slave Trade in Western Africa appeared in 2011 Travels in West Africa Mary H. Kingsley, Women, Travel, and Writing in the Interwar Era Ann Catherine Hoag, 2024-07-31 Women Travel and Writing in the Interwar Era engages feminist temporal and narrative theories to offer fresh examinations of interwar era accounts by women about travel and movement and considers the use and limitations of time as a subversive force in their texts This book makes a significant contribution to the under examined study of women's travel writing between the wars and synthesises and applies a variety of feminist narrative and postcolonial theories to excavate new understandings of the intersection between women travel and time in writing The book studies the emergence of the aviatrix after the Great War and moves through to the representations of war in women's travel on the brink of World War II. Each chapter offers a unique theoretical framework and examines how experiences of time impact perceptions of women's bodies and identities, their engagement with history and discourse, and the problematic influence on colonialism. Women Travel and Writing in the Interwar Era is essential reading to any student or researcher in the field of women's travel writing as well as scholars of gender studies, war and interwar history, and cultural heritage.

Going Places Robert Burgin, 2013-01-08. Successfully navigate the rich world of travel narratives and identify fiction and nonfiction read-alikes with this detailed and expertly constructed guide. Just as savvy travelers make use of guidebooks to help navigate the hundreds of countries around the globe, smart librarians need a guidebook that makes sense of the world of travel narratives. Going Places: A Reader's Guide to Travel Narratives meets that demand, helping librarians assist patrons in finding the nonfiction books that most interest them. It will also serve to help users better understand the genre and their own reading interests. The book examines the subgenres of the travel narrative genre in its seven chapters, categorizing and describing approximately 600 titles according to genres and broad reading interests, and identifying hundreds of other fiction and nonfiction titles as read-alikes and related reads by shared key topics. The author has also identified award-winning titles and spotlighted further resources on travel lit, making this work an ideal guide for readers, advisors, as well as a book general readers will enjoy browsing.

The Oxford Companion to World Exploration David Buisseret (ed), 2007. Covering all aspects of global exploration from Antarctica to the North Pole, The Oxford Companion to World Exploration examines the lives and expeditions of heroic and influential explorers. This coverage includes biographies including Lewis and Clark, Ferdinand Magellan, Cheng Ho, Hernán Cortés, Ibn Battuta, Vitus Bering, and Christopher Columbus; national expeditions including Portuguese, British, French, Chinese, Dutch, and Spanish; and navigational and marine sciences such as navigational techniques, ancient and medieval navigation, ocean currents, and winds, longitude, cartography, and aerial surveys. The Companion's temporal scope ranges from the ancient cultures of Egypt, Persia, Greece, Byzantium, China, Polynesia, and Rome through to modern space exploration. The articles have been written by leading scholars from across the globe, utilizing the most current scholarship in the field of exploration studies. The Companion contains 800 entries, supplemented by 150 black and white and 50 full-color photographs and maps. Annotated primary source materials such as travel logs and personal letters supplement select biographies. Each entry is signed by a leading scholar in the field, contains a bibliography for further reading, and is cross-referenced to other useful points of interest within the Companion. Published in association with the Newberry Library in Chicago, the Companion will reproduce more than 100 images from its world.
