Unobtrusive Methods in Social Research Raymond M. Lee, 2000 Social researchers often collect self report data based on interviews and surveys There are major problems associated with the reactive nature of these data for example people are not always honest when asked to supply information on sensitive issues Unobtrusive methods produce data that are not elicited in this way Instead data are found in the word captured from various forms of observation or are retrieved from data repositories of various kinds The production of unobtrusive methods requires considerable ingenuity on the part of the researcher and this book explores the methods involved and how they are produced There are also ethical problems associated with unobtrusive methods which are discussed in the book The Internet promises to be a major source of unobtrusive data and so is discussed in some detail
