Wives Of Steel Voices Of Women From The Sparrows Point Steelmaking Communities:

Wives of Steel Karen Olson, 2005 Wives of Steel is based on more than eighty formal interviews conducted over a fifteen year period with women and some men both white and black all of whom were part of Sparrows Point as workers spouses or longtime residents of the local communities Through the stories they tell we see how a male dominated industry has influenced personal family and social experiences over several generations We also see the distinct differences and surprising similarities among the lives of black and white women which often reflect the complicated relationships among black and white steelworkers in the plant

Roots of Steel Deborah Rudacille, 2011-08-23 As the American economy seeks to restructure itself Roots of Steel is a powerful candid and eye opening reminder of the people who have been left behind When Deborah Rudacille was a child in the working class town of Dundalk Maryland a worker at the local Sparrows Point steel mill made more than enough to comfortably support a family But the decline of American manufacturing in the decades since has put tens of thousands out of work and left the people of Dundalk pondering the broken promise of the American dream In Roots of Steel Rudacille combines personal narrative interviews with workers and extensive research to capture the character and history of this once prosperous community

Company Towns M. Borges, S. Torres, 2012-08-16 Company towns first appeared in Europe and North America with the industrial revolution and followed the expansion of capital to frontier societies colonies and new nations Their common feature was the degree of company control and supervision reaching beyond the workplace into workers private and social lives Major sites of urban experimentation paternalism and welfare practices company towns were also contested terrain of negotiations and confrontations between capital and labor Looking at historical and contemporary examples from Europe the Americas Africa and Asia this book explores company towns global reach and adaptability to diverse geographical political and cultural contexts

The Voice of the Past Paul Thompson, Joanna Bornat, 2017 Oral history gives history back to the people in their own words And in giving a past it also helps them towards a future of their own making Oral history and life stories help to create a truer picture of the past and the changing present documenting the lives and feelings of all kinds of people many otherwise hidden from history It explores personal and family relationships and uncovers the secret cultures of work It connects public and private experience and it highlights the experiences of migrating between cultures At the same time it can bring courage to the old meaning to communities and contact between generations Sometimes it can offer a path for healing divided communities and those with traumatic memories Without it the history and sociology of our time would be poor and narrow In this fourth edition of his pioneering work fully revised with Joanna Bornat Paul Thompson challenges the accepted myths of historical scholarship He discusses the reliability of oral evidence in comparison with other sources and considers the social context of its development He looks at the relationship between memory the self and identity He traces oral history through its own past and weighs up the recent achievements of a movement which has become international with notably strong developments in North America

Europe Australia Latin America South Africa and the Far East despite resistance from more conservative academics This new edition combines the classic text of The Voice of the Past with many new sections including especially the worldwide development of different forms of oral history and the parallel memory boom as well as discussions of theory in oral history and of memory trauma and reconciliation It offers a deep social and historical interpretation along with succinct practical advice on designing and carrying out a project The Voice of the Past remains an invaluable tool for anyone setting out to use oral history and life stories to construct a more authentic and balanced record of the past and the present

Steel Closets Anne Balay, 2014 Steel Closets Voices of Gay Lesbian and Transgender Steelworkers Gender and Heritage Wera Grahn, Ross J. Wilson, 2018-02-02 Gender and Heritage brings together a group of international scholars to examine the performance place and politics of gender within heritage Through a series of case studies models and assessments the significance of understanding and working with concepts of gender is demonstrated as a dynamic and reforming agenda Demonstrating that gender has become an increasingly important area for heritage scholarship the collection argues that it should also be recognised as a central structuring device within society and the location where a critical heritage studies can emerge Drawing on contributions from around the world this edited collection provides a range of innovative approaches to using gender as a mode of enquiry From the politics of museum displays the exploration of pedagogy the role of local initiatives and the legal frameworks that structure representation the volume s diversity and objectives represent a challenge for students academics and professionals to rethink gender Rather than featuring gender as an addition to wider discussions of heritage this volume makes gender the focus of concern as a means of building a new agenda within the field This volume which addresses how we engage with gender and heritage in both practice and theory is essential reading for scholars at all levels and should also serve as a useful guide for practitioners

As Goes Bethlehem Jill A. Schennum, 2023-08-15 The steel industry played a central role in building post World War II economic success in the US and in defining the parameters of the post World War II social contract As these long term processes both preceded and contributed to the Great Recession a new capitalism one in which banks and the credit system took precedence over industrial production changed the lives of many American workers including steelworkers As Goes Bethlehem raises important questions about why workers and their unions were not able to successfully contest this attack on industrial labor instead settling for best navigating a long downward trajectory Through the experiences and reflections of steelworkers Jill A Schennum demonstrates the significance of work and particularly of industrial work in giving meaning to people s lives identities and sense of worth She uses workers narratives and voices to show the importance of work space time and social relations rejecting dominant interpretations of blue collar workers as alienated from their work but well paid and co opted by a middle class standard of living Schennum covers thirty five years of investment and disinvestment managerial initiatives transfer decisions layoffs and downsizings external transfers the eventual bankruptcy of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and movement into retirement unemployment and new postindustrial jobs The very solidarities rights of citizenship and rule of law forged in the mill and built on by the union were constructed in part through exclusions based on race ethnicity gender and region These lines of fracture were mobilized to undermine working class strength in the postindustrial period Through the experiences of African American Puerto Rican coal country and women workers in the steel mills this book explores these issues of fracture and solidarity

Social History of the United States Brian Greenberg,Linda S. Watts,Richard A. Greenwald,Gordon Reavley,Alice L. George,Scott Beekman,Cecelia Bucki,Mark Ciabattari,John C. Stoner,Troy D. Paino,Laurie Mercier,Andrew Hunt,Peter C. Holloran,Nancy Cohen,2008-10-23 This ten volume encyclopedia explores the social history of 20th century America in rich authoritative detail decade by decade through the eyes of its everyday citizens Social History of the United States is a cornerstone reference that tells the story of 20th century America examining the interplay of policies events and everyday life in each decade of the 1900s with unmatched authority clarity and insight Spanning ten volumes and featuring the work of some of the foremost social historians working today Social History of the United States bridges the gap between 20th century history as it played out on the grand stage and history as it affected and was affected by citizens at the grassroots level Covering each decade in a separate volume this exhaustive work draws on the most compelling scholarship to identify important themes and institutions explore daily life and working conditions across the economic spectrum and examine all aspects of the American experience from a citizen s eye view Casting the spotlight on those whom history often leaves in the dark Social History of the United States is an essential addition to any library collection The Next Shift Gabriel Winant,2021-03-23 Winner of the Frederick Jackson Turner Award Winner of the Isaac and Tamara Deutscher Memorial Prize Winner of the C L R James Award A ProMarket Best Political Economy Book of the Year Men in hardhats were once the heart of America s working class now it is women in scrubs What does this shift portend for our future Pittsburgh was once synonymous with steel But today most of its mills are gone Like so many places across the United States a city that was a center of blue collar manufacturing is now dominated by the service economy particularly health care which employs more Americans than any other industry Gabriel Winant takes us inside the Rust Belt to show how America s cities have weathered new economic realities In Pittsburgh s neighborhoods he finds that a new working class has emerged in the wake of deindustrialization As steelworkers and their families grew older they required more health care Even as the industrial economy contracted sharply the care economy thrived Hospitals and nursing homes went on hiring sprees But many care jobs bear little resemblance to the manufacturing work the city lost Unlike their blue collar predecessors home health aides and hospital staff work unpredictable hours for low pay And the new working class disproportionately comprises women and people of color Today health care workers are on the front lines of our most pressing crises yet we have been slow to appreciate that they are the face of our twenty first century workforce The Next Shift offers unique insights into how we got here and what could happen next If health care employees along with other essential workers can translate the increasing

recognition of their economic value into political power they may become a major force in the twenty first century

The Long Shadow Karl Alexander,Doris Entwisle,Linda Olson,2014-05-31 A volume in the American Sociological Association s Rose Series in Sociology West Baltimore stands out in the popular imagination as the quintessential inner city gritty run down and marred by drugs and gang violence Indeed with the collapse of manufacturing jobs in the 1970s the area experienced a rapid onset of poverty and high unemployment with few public resources available to alleviate economic distress But in stark contrast to the image of a perpetual urban underclass depicted in television by shows like The Wire sociologists Karl Alexander Doris Entwisle and Linda Olson present a more nuanced portrait of Baltimore s inner city residents that employs important new research on the significance of early life opportunities available to low income populations The Long Shadow focuses on children who grew up in west Baltimore neighborhoods and others like them throughout the city tracing how their early lives in the inner city have affected their long term well being Although research for this book was conducted in Baltimore that city s struggles with deindustrialization white flight and concentrated poverty were characteristic of most East Coast and Midwest manufacturing cities The experience of Baltimore s children who came of age during this era is mirrored in the experiences of urban children across the nation For 25 years the authors of The Long Shadow tracked the life progress of a group of almost 800 predominantly low income Baltimore school children through the Beginning School Study Youth Panel BSSYP The study monitored the children s transitions to young adulthood with special attention to how opportunities available to them as early as first grade shaped their socioeconomic status as adults The authors fine grained analysis confirms that the children who lived in more cohesive neighborhoods had stronger families and attended better schools tended to maintain a higher economic status later in life As young adults they held higher income jobs and had achieved more personal milestones such as marriage than their lower status counterparts Differences in race and gender further stratified life opportunities for the Baltimore children As one of the first studies to closely examine the outcomes of inner city whites in addition to African Americans data from the BSSYP shows that by adulthood white men of lower status family background despite attaining less education on average were more likely to be employed than any other group in part due to family connections and long standing racial biases in Baltimore s industrial economy Gender imbalances were also evident the women who were more likely to be working in low wage service and clerical jobs earned less than men African American women were doubly disadvantaged insofar as they were less likely to be in a stable relationship than white women and therefore less likely to benefit from a second income Combining original interviews with Baltimore families teachers and other community members with the empirical data gathered from the authors groundbreaking research The Long Shadow unravels the complex connections between socioeconomic origins and socioeconomic destinations to reveal a startling and much needed examination of who succeeds and why
