Militarism and the Indo-Europeanizing of Europe Robert Drews, 2017-05-12 This book argues that the Indo Europeanizing of Europe essentially began shortly before 1600 BC when lands rich in natural resources were taken over by military forces from the Eurasian steppe and from southern Caucasia First were the copper and silver mines along with good harbors in Greece and the copper and gold mines of the Carpathian basin By ca 1500 BC other military men had taken over the amber coasts of Scandinavia and the metalworking district of the southern Alps These military takeovers offer the most likely explanations for the origins of the Greek Celtic Germanic and Italic subgroups of the Indo European language family Battlefield warfare and militarism Robert Drews contends were novelties ca 1600 BC and were a consequence of the military employment of chariots Current opinion is that militarism and battlefield warfare are as old as formal states going back before 3000 BC Another current opinion is that the Indo Europeanizing of Europe happened long before 1600 BC The Kurgan theory of Marija Gimbutas and David Anthony dates it from late in the fifth to early in the third millennium BC and explains it as the result of horse riding conquerors or raiders coming to Europe from the steppe Colin Renfrew's Archaeology and Language dates the Indo Europeanizing of Europe to the seventh and sixth millennia BC and explains it as a consequence of the spread of agriculture in a wave of advance from Anatolia through Europe Pairing linguistic with archaeological evidence Drews concludes that in Greece and Italy at least no Indo European language could have arrived before the second millennium BC

The Twin Horse Gods Henry John Walker, 2015-06-15 The twin deities known by the ancient Greeks as the Dioskouroi and by the Romans as the Gemini were popular figures in the classical world They were especially connected with youth low status and service and were embraced by the common people in a way that eluded those gods associated with regal magnificence or the ruling classes Despite their popularity no dedicated study has been published on the horse gods for over a hundred years Henry John Walker here addresses this neglect His comparative study traces the origins meanings and applications of the twin divinities to social and ritual settings in Greece Vedic India where the brothers named Castor and Pollux were revered as Indo European gods called the Asvins Etruria and classical Rome He demonstrates for example that since the Dioskouroi were regarded as being halfway between gods and men so young Spartans undergoing a fierce and rigorous military training saw themselves as standing midway between animal and human Such creative interpretations of the myth thus played a central role in the culture and society of antiquity
