Blasch,Sai Ravela,Alex J. Aved,2023-09-14 This Second Volume in the series Handbook of Dynamic Data Driven Applications Systems DDDAS expands the scope of the methods and the application areas presented in the first Volume and aims to provide additional and extended content of the increasing set of science and engineering advances for new capabilities enabled through DDDAS The methods and examples of breakthroughs presented in the book series capture the DDDAS paradigm and its scientific and technological impact and benefits The DDDAS paradigm and the ensuing DDDAS based frameworks for systems analysis and design have been shown to engender new and advanced capabilities for understanding analysis and management of engineered natural and societal systems applications systems and for the commensurate wide set of scientific and engineering fields and applications as well as foundational areas The DDDAS book series aims to be a reference source of many of the important research and development efforts conducted under the rubric of DDDAS and to also inspire the broader communities of researchers and developers about the potential in their respective areas of interest of the application and the exploitation of the DDDAS paradigm and the ensuing frameworks through the examples and case studies presented either within their own field or other fields of study As in the first volume the chapters in this book reflect research work conducted over the years starting in the 1990 s to the present Here the theory and application content are considered for Foundational Methods Materials Systems Structural Systems Energy Systems Environmental Systems Domain Assessment address challenges that ML alone does not and also show how ML in combination with DDDAS based methods can deliver the advanced capabilities sought likewise infusion of DDDAS like approaches in NN methods strengthens such methods Moreover the DDDAS based Digital Twin or Dynamic Digital Twin goes beyond the traditional DT notion where the model and the physical system are viewed side by side in a static way to a paradigm where the model dynamically interacts with the physical system through its instrumentation per the DDDAS feed back control loop between model and instrumentation Biogeomorphic Responses to Wildfire in Fluvial Ecosystems Joan L. Literature ,1928 Wildland Fire Behaviour Mark A. Finney,Sara S. McAllister,Jason M. Fortthofer,Torben P. Grumstrup,2021-11 Wildland fires have an irreplaceable role in sustaining many of our forests shrublands and grasslands They can be used as controlled burns or occur as free burning wildfires and can sometimes be dangerous and destructive to fauna human communities and natural resources Through scientific understanding of their behaviour we can develop the tools to reliably use and manage fires across landscapes in ways that are compatible with the constraints of modern society while benefiting the ecosystems The science of wildland fire is incomplete however Even the simplest fire behaviours how fast they spread how long they burn and how large they get arise from a dynamical system of physical processes interacting in unexplored ways with heterogeneous biological ecological and meteorological factors across many scales of time and space The physics of heat transfer combustion and ignition for example operate in all fires at millimetre and millisecond scales but wildfires can become conflagrations that burn for months and exceed millions of hectares Wildland Fire Behaviour Dynamics Principles and Processes examines what is known and unknown about wildfire behaviours The authors introduce fire as a dynamical system along with traditional steady state concepts They then break down the system into its primary physical components describe how they depend upon environmental factors and explore system dynamics by constructing and exercising a nonlinear model The limits of modelling and knowledge are discussed throughout but emphasised by review of large fire behaviours Advancing knowledge of fire behaviours will require a multidisciplinary approach and rely on quality measurements from experimental research as covered in the final chapters Bulletin of the Library Company of Philadelphia ,1893 Earth Observation of Wildland Fires in Mediterranean Ecosystems Emilio Chuvieco,2009-09-25 Wildland fires are becoming one of the most critical environmental factors affecting a wide range of ecosystems worldwide In Mediterranean ecosystems including also South Africa California parts of Chile and Australia wildland fires are recurrent phenomena every summer following the seasonal drought As a result of changes in traditional land use practices and the impact of recent climate warming fires have more negative impacts in the last years threatening lives socio economic and ecological values The book describes the ecological context of fires in the Mediterranean ecosystems and provides methods to observe fire danger conditions and fire impacts using Earth Observation and Geographic Information System technologies

Making His Mark Horatio Alger (Jr.),1903 At the Siege of Quebec James Otis,1901 Recaptured Africans Sharla M. Fett,2016-11-23 In the years just before the Civil War during the most intensive phase of American slave trade suppression the U S Navy seized roughly 2 000 enslaved Africans from illegal slave ships and brought them into temporary camps at Key West and Charleston In this study Sharla Fett reconstructs the social world of these recaptives and recounts the relationships they built to survive the holds of slave ships American detention camps and ultimately a second transatlantic voyage to Liberia Fett also demonstrates how the presence of slave trade refugees in southern ports accelerated heated arguments between divergent antebellum political movements from abolitionist human rights campaigns to slave trade revivalism that used recaptives to support their claims about slavery slave trading and race By focusing on shipmate relations rather than naval exploits or legal trials and by analyzing the experiences of both children and adults of varying African origins Fett provides the first history of U S slave trade suppression centered on recaptive Africans themselves In so doing she examines the state of recaptivity as a distinctive variant of slave trade captivity and situates the recaptives story within the broader diaspora of Liberated Africans throughout the Atlantic world

Dark Days at Noon

Edward Struzik, 2022-09-09 The catastrophic runaway wildfires advancing through North America and other parts of the world are not unprecedented Fires loomed large once human activity began to warm the climate in the 1820s leading to an aggressive firefighting strategy that has left many of the continent's forests too old and vulnerable to the fires that many tree species need to regenerate Dark Days at Noon provides a broad history of wildfire in North America from before European contact to the present in the hopes that we may learn from how we managed fire in the past and apply those lessons in the future As people continue to move into forested landscapes to work play live and ignite fires intentionally or unintentionally fire has begun to take its toll burning entire towns knocking out utilities closing roads and forcing the evacuation of hundreds of thousands of people Fire management in North America requires attention and cooperation from both sides of the border and many of the most significant fires have taken place at the boundary line Despite a clear lack of urgency among political leaders Edward Struzik argues that wildfire science needs to guide the future of fire management and that those same leaders need to shape public perception accordingly By explaining how society's misguided response to fire has led to our current situation Dark Days at Noon warns of what may happen in the future if we do not learn to live with fire as the continent's Indigenous Peoples once did
