Windflower New Canadian Library:

New Canadian Library Janet Friskney, 2015-05-07 In the mid 1950s much Canadian literature was out of print making it relatively inaccessible to readers including those studying the subject in schools and universities When English professor Malcolm Ross approached Toronto publisher Jack McClelland in 1952 to propose a Canadian literary reprint series it was still the accepted wisdom among publishers that Canadian literature was of insufficient interest to the educational market to merit any great publishing risks Eventually convinced by Ross that a latent market for Canadian literary reprints did indeed exist McClelland Stewart launched the New Canadian Library NCL series in 1958 with Ross as its general editor In 2008 the NCL will celebrate a half century of publication In New Canadian Library Janet B Friskney takes the reader through the early history of the NCL series focusing on the period up to 1978 when Malcolm Ross retired as general editor A wealth of archival resources published reviews and the NCL volumes themselves are used to survey the working relationship between Ross and McClelland as well as the collaborative participation of those who through the middle decades of the twentieth century were committed to studying and nurturing Canada's literary heritage To place the New Canadian Library in its proper historical context Friskney examines the simultaneous development of Canadian literary studies as a legitimate area of research and teaching in academe and acknowledges the NCL as a milestone in Canadian publishing history

In Translation Joyce Marshall, Gabrielle Roy, 2006-12-15 Gabrielle Roy was one of the most prominent Canadian authors of the twentieth century Joyce Marshall an excellent writer herself was one of Roy's English translators The two shared a deep and long lasting friendship based on a shared interest in language and writing In Translation offers a critical examination of the more than two hundred letters exchanged by Roy and Marshall between 1959 and 1980 In their letters Roy and Marshall exchange news about their general health and well being their friends and family their surroundings their travels and other writers as well as their dealings with critics editors and publishers They recount comical incidents and strange encounters in their lives and reflect on human nature current events and from time to time their writing Of particular interest to the two women were the problems they encountered during the translation process Many passages in the letters concern the ways in which the nuances of language can be shaped through translation Editor Jane Everett has arranged the letters here in chronological order and has added critical notes to fill in the historical and literary gaps as well as to identify various editorial problems Shedding light on the process of writing and translating In Translation is an invaluable addition to the study of Canadian writing and to the literature on these two important figures

Angel Margaret Laurence,2010-10-08 The film adaptation of Margaret Laurence s The Stone Angel starring acclaimed actresses Ellen Burstyn and Ellen Page and introducing Christine Horne opens in theatres May 9 2008 This special fortieth anniversary edition of Margaret Laurence s most celebrated novel will introduce readers again to one of the most memorable characters in Canadian fiction Hagar Shipley is stubborn querulous self reliant and at ninety with her life nearly behind her she makes a bold last step towards freedom and independence As her story unfolds we are drawn into her past We meet Hagar as a young girl growing up in a black prairie town as the wife of a virile but unsuccessful farmer with whom her marriage was stormy as a mother who dominates her younger son and finally as an old woman isolated by an uncompromising pride and by the stern virtues she has inherited from her pioneer ancestors Vivid evocative moving The Stone Angel celebrates the triumph of the spirit and reveals Margaret Laurence at the height of her powers as a writer of extraordinary craft and profound insight into the workings of the human heart
