Window in the Sky Paul J. Joseph, 2020-02-23 Fantastic read Paul J. Joseph is an author to watch. Jonas Saul, author of the Sarah Roberts Series, What if a friendly but gullible alien fell into the hands of the KGB during the 1960s? What if their technological gifts helped the Soviets win the cold war? What would happen to those of us who remember the real history? Could this have happened before? From the mind of Paul J. Joseph, author of The Turing Files featuring Romo's Journey and The Railas Project. With a lasting peace established between Earth and Baltan, mediated by the growing alliance with the mysterious Szzzyyyxx, a new chapter in human history begins. It is in this environment of newfound goodwill that the Szzzyyyxx Mother requests Sally Bud's help with a mystery. Two Szzzyyyxx vessels have disappeared in the far reaches of their space. Sally and her pilot Ian plan a controversial search and rescue mission with the first of a new line of experimental ships. They and their crew arrive in the region to discover a fold that doesn't go anywhere. On closer inspection, however, they find evidence of a black hole and a strange world that defies understanding. Sally and Ian's investigation of the planet reveals a machine established in eternity and used to teleport the missing Szzzyyyxx to Earth in the 1960s. There, captured by the KGB, they unwittingly help a rogue agent rise to power and dominate the Earth. But the power he uses to do this opens a door to something far worse. With their own past erased, Sally and her crew must rebuild history and defeat an ancient and universal evil. Can Sally Bud and her crew discover their true history? Can they separate their real selves from those that are possible? Find out in this unpredictable story. On Self-translation Simona Anselmi, 2021-04-09T00:00:00+02:00 The book explores aspects of self-translation, an all but exceptional phenomenon which has been practised albeit on the quiet for nearly two thousand years and has recently grown exponentially due to the increasing internationalisation of English and the growing multilingualism of modern societies. Starting from the premise that self-translation is first and foremost a translational act, i.e. a form of rewriting subject to a number of constraints, the book utilises the most valuable methods and findings of translation studies to account for the variety of reasons underlying self-translation processes and the diversity of strategies used by self-translators. The cases studied range from Kundera to Ngugi and addressing writers like Beckett Huston Tagore Brink Krog and many others show that the translation methods employed by self translators vary considerably depending on their teloi Nonetheless most self translations display domesticating tendencies similar to those observed in allograph translations which confirms the view that self translators just like normal translators are never free from the linguistic and cultural constraints imposed by the recontextualising of their texts in a new language Most interestingly the study brings to light certain recurring features e g a tendency of author translators to revise their original during the self translation process or after completing it which make self translators privileged authors who can revise their texts in the light of the insights gained while translating
