

AUSTRALIA

Australia is the only country in the world that covers an entire continent, but surprisingly it is the largest island in the world as well! More than 25 million people live in Australia, which is not so many if you consider how big the country is. The majority of the country is desert, which is called outback.

The capital is Canberra, but its largest urban area is Sydney. An interesting town is Alice Springs, which is located in the middle of the outback. Tourists come to Alice Springs because they can try different adventure sports in the desert, like camping, mountain biking and walking. You can't miss the experience of flying over the desert in a hot-air balloon, a helicopter or a small plane. The first explorers crossed the outback using camels.

The first people to live in Australia were the Aborigines, and they've been there for approximately 50,000 years! Today many Aborigines still live in the desert areas of the Australian outback and they've learnt to survive under these harsh desert conditions.

Australia was first called New Holland because it was discovered by Dutch explorers.

Australia's nickname is Down Under as it is faraway, but also because it has got unique animals and plants that can't be found anywhere else in the world, such as kangaroos, echidnas, kookaburras and koalas.

The Great Barrier Reef is the biggest coral reef in the world. It is made up of more than 3,000 reefs, and there are more than 1,500 species of fish!

The Australian flag has three parts: the Commonwealth Star, the Southern Cross and the Union Jack. Australia is a member of the Commonwealth of Nations, and this means that the head of state is King Charles III!

Year 7 English Comprehension Australia:

English in Australia ,2004 Australia's Curriculum Dilemmas Lyn Yates,Cherry Collins,Kate O'Connor,2011-03-15

Australia's Curriculum Dilemmas tells the story of Australia's recent attempts to come to grips with the big challenges of curriculum and sets up the background to understanding the debates that continue to surface as we move for the first time towards a national approach. Detailing some of the inside stories and arguments of the last 30 years about what schools should do as well as some of the politics and lessons that have been learnt along the way, it brings together accounts from a national research project and reflections from people who have been actively involved in developing curriculum policies for each state. Expert contributors examine the challenges of the public management of curriculum drawing on the different experiences of curriculum reforms in different states. They take up the problems of framing vocational and academic education for the new century and of confronting equity and diversity issues. They show the fundamental differences that exist in Australia regarding the impact of examinations and assessment and the very different policy approaches that have been taken to tackle these issues. Many people in this country are unaware of how much their experience of education has been formed by the particular values of the state in which they were educated. For the first time this book demonstrates the effects of those differences now and into the future.
