Christ in the Heart Alexander MacLaren, 1887 Your Last Hope P. McGeown, 2015-12-11. An inspirational policy is needed that will encourage HOPE in a person struggling to pull their life back together again after getting the worst possible news from their physician. This document Your Last Hope attempts to set out the reasons why a person should have a hope. They should see that the reasons for hope come from the existence of the many cases of others having been successful in surviving. The evidence for this is described in the previous books Spirituality, Self Healing and Aristotle's Form Healing. Mindedness and Miracles, Metaphysics and Form and what they present is condensed into the following discussions with further examples. As a seriously ill person, your spirits must continue to flourish in the time of your need. At such a time you need a hope, need to see the possibility when others give none that in your particular case the worst can possibly be avoided. Experiences gathered from successful survivors and from other related human experiences have a pattern that can be repeated. Repeating the pattern of experiences requires a program, a policy, a method of following the necessary conditions for a healing as a side effect. This program will need you to do things for yourself. A rapid healing requires that you must have the will to live and that you change your attitudes and beliefs from what you have grown up with and traditionally believed and accepted about yourself as a human being. There is the need for a fundamental shake up to your existence on a par with the shake up you have received from the physician. The pattern of experiences the successful have undergone continually features spirituality not surprisingly since it reaches into a person's very Being The link between spirituality and survival of the seriously ill is emphasised There is then the developing of a new life style leaving the old behind that brings changes to your life and brightens your hopes for the future The Churchman ,1889 The British Homoeopathic Review ,1887
