Come Into the Water Merlyn Janet Magner,2011 Rapid City South Dakota June 9 1972 238 people died 5 are still missing In the midst of one of the worst floods in the history of the United States one young woman clung to the roof of a house desperately holding on to the vestiges of her life At the same time the massive flood surging down from the Black Hills and through the city swept away everything and everybody she loved Somehow Merlyn Magner survived that horrific night but she lost her brother mother and father to the rampaging water Questions coursed through her mind then and for much of the rest of her life Why did this happen Why did my family die Why did I survive What does it all mean Rescued from that rooftop Merlyn set out to find the answers to these questions She searched for comprehension she searched for a sense of place she searched for meaning she searched Her search took her from the Black Hills on a journey around the United States and then the world traversing the globe to escape the memories and the pain and always looking for answers Her story is one of great tragedy and yet equally of great joy and reward It is a poignant spiritual journey a fractured fairy tale which has at its core the search for her very own grail one that will help her make sense of the why how and what of that horrendous night

The Secret History of Dreaming Robert Moss,2010-09-07 Dreaming is vital to the human story It is essential to our survival and evolution to creative endeavors in every field and quite simply to getting us through our daily lives All of us dream Now Robert Moss shows us how dreams have shaped world events and why deepening our conscious engagement with dreaming is crucial for our future He traces the strands of dreams through archival records and well known writings weaving remarkable yet true accounts of historical figures who were influenced by their dreams In this wide ranging visionary book Moss creates a new way to explore history and consciousness combining the storytelling skills of a bestselling novelist with the research acumen of a scholar of ancient history and the personal experience of an active dreamer

Ancient Egypt in the Popular Imagination David Huckvale,2014-01-10 Ancient Egypt has long been a source of fascination in Western popular culture. Movies such as The Mummy (1932, 1959), Biblical epics like The Ten Commandments (1923, 1956), and pharaonic films like Cleopatra (1934, 1963) and The Egyptian (1954) have all recreated the glamour and allure of Egyptian art and civilization for Western audiences. This work traces how these and other films were inspired by writers like Bram Stoker and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and by the art of Victorian painters. Similarly, it shows how the soundtracks to such films belong to a Romantic musical tradition stretching back beyond Verdi and Mozart. Exploring these artistic endeavors addresses the question of whether the fantasy of ancient Egypt represents racist misunderstandings of a far more significant reality or a way for Western culture to understand itself.
