DRC has been called the worst place in the world for women with reports of widespread and horrific incidents of rape and sexual violence and almost complete impunity for the perpetrators of such violence. However, despite the high profile media reporting on sexual violence in the DRC and the widely publicized responses of the international community, there is still very little real analysis of the real situation of women in the country. This book provides such detailed analysis of gender relations in the DRC and goes beyond the usual explanations of sexual violence as a product of conflict to examine the complex and socially constructed gender norms and roles which underlie incidences of violence. The book benefits from a comprehensive account of men's and women's roles in conflict, violence, peace building and reconstruction and evaluates the impacts of national and international political responses. In doing so, this book provides valuable new evidence and analysis of the complex and multilayered conflicts in the DRC.

Sexual Assault and the Justice Gap: A Question of Attitude Jennifer Temkin, Barbara Krahé, 2008-04-15. This book is set against the background of the justice gap in sexual assault cases: the dramatic gap between the number of offences recorded by the police and the number of convictions. It seeks to examine the attitudinal problems which bedevil this area of law and possible strategies for addressing them. Written by a professor of law and a professor of psychology, it reviews evidence from socio-legal and social cognition research and presents new data drawn both from interviews with judges and barristers and from studies with prospective lawyers and members of the public. In the final part, it considers different ways in which rape trials could be improved and suggests steps that could be taken to change public attitudes about sexual assault.

State-Sanctioned Violence Melvin Delgado, 2020-03-16. State-sanctioned violence built upon the foundation established by Intersectionality introduces a purposeful socio-political agenda that is carried out by various levels of government to subjugate a group due to its beliefs, physical characteristics and/or social circumstances. This book provides a conceptual foundation on state-sanctioned violence, critiques how this perspective holds relevance for social work research, education and practice, examines specific examples of how and where state-sanctioned violence is manifested and projects potential developments into the near future.

The Fictions of Stephen Graham Jones Billy J. Stratton, 2016-12-01. Even as Stephen Graham Jones generates a dizzying range of brilliant fiction, his work remains strikingly absent from scholarly conversations about Native and western American literature, owing in part to his unapologetic embrace of popular genres such as horror and science fiction. Steeped in dense narrative, references, literary and historical allusions and experimental postmodern stylings, his fiction informs a broad array of literary and popular conversations. The Fictions of Stephen Graham Jones is the first collection of scholarship on Jones's ever-expanding oeuvre. The diverse methodologies that inform these essays, from Native American critical theory to poststructuralism and gothic noirism, illuminate the unique complexity of Jones's narrative worlds while positioning his works within broader conversations in literary studies and popular culture. Jones challenges at every turn the notions of what constitutes Native American literature and what it means to be a Native American writer. Contributing editor Billy J. Stratton foregrounds these heavily contested questions and their ongoing relevance to readers and critics alike Problem-solving John E. Eck,1987
