Victorian America Transformations In Everyday Life:

Victorian America Thomas J. Schlereth, 1991 Perspectives on American lifestyles and the impact of technology communications and transportation between 1876 and 1915 A Passion for Birds Mark V. Barrow, Jr., 2021-08-10 In the decades following the Civil War as industrialization urbanization and economic expansion increasingly reshaped the landscape many Americans began seeking adventure and aesthetic gratification through avian pursuits By the turn of the century hundreds of thousands of middle and upper class devotees were rushing to join Audubon societies purchase field guides and keep records of the species they encountered in the wild Mark Barrow vividly reconstructs this story not only through the experiences of birdwatchers collectors conservationists and taxidermists but also through those of a relatively new breed of bird enthusiast the technically oriented ornithologist In exploring how ornithologists struggled to forge a discipline and profession amidst an explosion of popular interest in natural history A Passion for Birds provides the first book length history of American ornithology from the death of John James Audubon to the Second World War Barrow shows how efforts to form a scientific community distinct from popular birders met with only partial success The founding of the American Ornithologists Union in 1883 and the subsequent expansion of formal educational and employment opportunities in ornithology marked important milestones in this campaign Yet by the middle of the twentieth century when ornithology had finally achieved the status of a modern profession its practitioners remained dependent on the services of birdwatchers and other amateur enthusiasts Environmental issues also loom large in Barrow's account as he traces areas of both cooperation and conflict between ornithologists and wildlife conservationists Recounting a colorful story based on the interactions among a wide variety of bird lovers this book will interest historians of science environmental historians ornithologists birdwatchers and anyone curious about the historical roots of today's birding boom The Ahern Home of Texarkana Doris Douglas Davis, 2024-09-02 Focused on an early twentieth century home in Texarkana Arkansas Doris Douglas Davis's The Ahern Home of Texarkana offers not only a discussion of the architecture of a Classical Revival dwelling but also provides a closely observed account of the material culture and social structures of a particular time and place in the American South Built in 1905-1906 by Patrick Ahern who immigrated to the United States from Dungarvan Ireland in 1881 the house at 403 Laurel Street was home to Ahern his wife Mary their six children and a variety of descendants for over a century before its acquisition by the Texarkana Museums System in 2011 Today the house listed on the National Register of Historic Places serves as a writing retreat music center and venue for historical presentations and educational activities Based on archival materials interviews with members of the family and those who knew them and other research Davis's examination of the home and its inhabitants also includes a discussion of the complex relationship between persons of privilege such as the Aherns and the domestic servants predominantly African American whose often arduous work made possible the smooth functioning of the household within its social context in the Jim Crow South Describing the fraught relationships in the South between Black domestic servants and their white employers Davis presents evidence of the inevitable despair wrought by inequality and the tremendous capacity of the human heart to love This detailed tour of the home its construction and furnishings and the socio historical context of its day to day activities provides readers a window of understanding and appreciation that will inform students and scholars of material culture as well as those interested in historical preservation

Pathways through Crisis Carl A. Maida,2008-12-16 When densely populated urban areas face severe crises natural disasters epidemics sudden unemployment massive immigration they often find that established mechanisms cannot respond adequately to the problems Carl Maida argues that solutions to these problems tend to be developed within the affected communities themselves In Pathways through Crisis he draws on his two decades of work in ethnography and with crisis centers in the Los Angeles area to study the kinds of informal organizations that arise at the grass roots level in order to deal with severe crises This ground breaking examination of responses to urban disaster suggests how both informal and formal organizations can be developed to serve people under extreme duress Made to Play House Miriam

Formanek-Brunell,1998-11-30 In Made to Play House Miriam Formanek Brunell traces the history of nineteenth and twentieth century dolls and explores the origins of the American toy industry s remarkably successful efforts to promote self fulfillment through maternity and materialism She tells the fascinating story of how inventors producers entrepreneurs many of whom were women and little girls themselves created dolls which expressed various notions of female identity Ty Cobb, Baseball, and American Manhood Steven Elliott Tripp,2016-07-15 Ty Cobb called baseball a red blooded game for red blooded men warning that molly coddles had better stay out By this Cobb meant that baseball was the ultimate expression of the masculine ideal a game of aggression rivalry physical and mental dexterity self reliance and primal honor For over twenty years Cobb expressed his fierce brand of manhood in ballparks throughout the American Northeast gaining for himself a level of celebrity that was unsurpassed in the early twentieth century Fans idolized Cobb not only because he was the best player in the game but because his boisterous and combative style of play satisfied their desire for exhibitions of visceral manhood They found in Cobb an antidote for what they feared were the corrupting influences of over civilization With balance precision and empathy Steven Elliott Tripp brings the era to life in a narrative Publisher s Weekly has called stunning In contrast to recent biographies of Cobb that have tried to minimize his more brutish behavior and minimize his racial antipathies Tripp contextualizes Cobb placing him squarely within the cultural milieu of both the rural South of his birth and the Northern sporting culture of his professional career Moreover Tripp s reconstruction of early twentieth century sporting culture isolates an important source of modern America s culture of hyper masculinity Ty Cobb Baseball and American Manhood is both an important work of social and cultural history and an absorbing tale of ambition and the quest for dominance Tripp has written the rare narrative that is as appealing to scholars as it is to general readers and sports enthusiasts

Down with the Old Canoe Steven Biel, 2012-02-28 Explores how the Titanic disaster became an icon for a variety of groups including suffragists and their opponents radicals reformers capitalists critics of technology racists and xenophobes
