examining the sources of conflict during life cycles of parents and their offspring A historical approach illuminates the variations in conflicts between parents and their offspring that are shaped by the life stages of the victims and offenders themselves across time The book argues that parental authority has been marked by property ownership and tax paying responsibilities throughout history The continued possession of property resulted in power the reluctance to part with it becoming a notable source of conflict across generations within families Parental authority was protected by means of heavy penalties and punishments and didactic teachings in almost every society at every stage of historical development It was also challenged constantly by children as a part of their coming into adulthood The abuse of parents has often been connected to situations where adult children were prevented from gaining the amount of independence appropriate to their position in life This led to disputes over authority and the legitimate grounds for that authority Offering an insight into complicated and interconnected histories of generational conflicts and how they affect modern families in different parts of the world this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology history of crime history of the family family violence homicide studies gender studies history of emotions political violence and social work Shadows of Fatherhood, Jung, and Film Mark Holmwood, 2024-08-23 Every picture tells a story and stories have the power to educate Looking at two key Jungian archetypes the father and the shadow from a challenging perspective this book investigates the negative shadowy side of fatherhood and its detrimental effect on children by presenting a collection of stories from all over the world Blurring the line between fiction and fact art and academic theory the book travels across a difficult psychosocial landscape discussing family life mental health and criminality Mark Holmwood highlights the educational value of these stories whilst exploring the father child dynamic adverse childhood experiences father hunger asymmetrical power relations psychological manipulation narcissism domestic violence sexual abuse patricide and filicide Jungian and post Jungian viewpoints on the bond between fathers and their children are woven into a bigger interconnected narrative which invites the readers to re think clinical sociological and mythological connections through the lens of modern masculinity and men s studies Discussing five different types of negative fathers the book presents their children s struggles and underlines their resilience at the same time emphasising assertion challenge questioning and if necessary acceptance all being a part of the complex and transformative psychological process called individuation Written with a clear and direct style Shadows of Fatherhood Jung and Film will be of interest to mental health professionals Jungian scholars students teachers and researchers in social sciences humanities and the arts as well as general readers with a distinctive interest in men s studies father child relations and cinema Serial and Mass Murder Elizabeth A. Gurian, 2021-09-30 This book reframes the study of multicide that is serial and mass murder to use objective measures and aims to expand our understanding of multicide offending through descriptive and inferential statistical analyses of different homicide patterns of the offenders Criminal homicide and multiple murders are rare occurrences that typically account for a very small percentage of all violent crimes in most countries

Despite this low occurrence homicide continues to be an area of intense study with a focus on subjective measures and classifications. The research and analysis based on a database of over 1 300 cases contributes to the criminological study of violence and draws distinctions between the types of offenders: partnered and solo, serial and mass, male and female etc. from a range of different countries and across decades. Traditionally studies of homicide focus on male offenders and theories of offending are then applied to females and co-offenders. The research presented in this book reveals that women and partnered offenders have very different homicide patterns from men. Looking at the history of multicide offending, this book uses descriptive and inferential statistical analyses to directly compare differences in offending and outcome patterns across multicide offender types. This exploration of the multidimensionality of homicide at an international level is useful for scholars and students interested in criminal justice, criminology, psychology, sociology or law.
