This title sets out to spark debate and learn from the urban bias theory. The author suggests that recent political economy research suggests that it is time to redefine the problem of urban bias. Viewed as a collective engagement with the urban bias theory, this volume presents the new research along with the responses of Bates and Lipton. These studies do not add up to an alternative theory of why the state behaves the way it does towards the countryside. They do, however, point to the factors that need careful attention in future research. These papers can be seen as building blocks for the construction of an alternative theory of the state and agriculture.

Urban Governance Voice and Poverty in the Developing World Nick Devas, 2014-10-14

Poverty and governance are both issues high on the agenda of international agencies and governments in the South. With urban areas accounting for a steadily growing share of the world's poor people, an international team of researchers focused their attention on the hitherto little studied relationship between urban governance and urban poverty. In their timely and in-depth examination of ten cities in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, they demonstrate that in many countries the global trends towards decentralization and democratization offer new opportunities for the poor to have an influence on the decisions that affect them. They also show how that influence depends on the nature of those democratic arrangements and decision-making processes at the local level as well as on the ability of the poor to organize. The study involved interviews with key actors within and outside city governments, discussions with poverty groups, community organizations, and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) as well as analyses of data on poverty services and finance. This book presents insights, conclusions, and practical examples that are of relevance for other cities. It outlines policy implications for national and local governments, NGOs, and donor agencies and highlights ways in which poor people can use their voice to influence the various institutions of city governance.

Development and the Rural-Urban Divide John Harriss, Mick Moore, 2017-10-16 First published in 1984

It is widely acknowledged that rural-urban differences and interrelationships play an important role in the development process. Some theorists believe they are a primary cause of continuing poverty in poor nations. This volume of essays summarises and appraises theories of rural-urban relations and economic development and explores mainly on the basis of country case studies the conceptual and theoretical problems to which they give rise and the extent to which they correspond to recent experiences in the Third World.

Africa's Urban Revolution Doctor Edgar Pieterse, Susan Parnell, 2014-01-09 The facts of Africa's rapid urbanisation are startling By 2030 African cities will have grown by more than 350 million people and over half the continent's population will be urban Yet in the minds of policy makers scholars and much of the general public Africa remains a quintessentially rural place This lack of awareness and robust analysis means it is difficult to make a policy case for a more overtly urban agenda As a result there is across the continent insufficient urgency directed to responding to the challenges and opportunities associated with the world's last major wave of urbanisation Drawing on the expertise of scholars and practitioners associated with the African Centre for Cities and utilising a diverse array of case studies Africa's Urban Revolution provides a comprehensive insight into the key issues demographic cultural political technical environmental and economic surrounding African urbanisation

The Routledge Handbook on Cities of the Global South Susan Parnell, Sophie Oldfield, 2014-03-26 The renaissance in urban theory draws directly from a fresh focus on the neglected realities of cities beyond the west and embraces the global south as the epicentre of urbanism This Handbook engages the complex ways in which cities of the global south and the global north are rapidly shifting the imperative for multiple genealogies of knowledge production as well as a diversity of empirical entry points to understand contemporary urban dynamics The Handbook works towards a geographical realignment in urban studies bringing into conversation a wide array of cities across the global south the ordinary mega global and peripheral With interdisciplinary contributions from a range of leading international experts it profiles an emergent and geographically diverse body of work The contributions draw on conflicting and divergent debates to open up discussion on the meaning of the city in or of the global south arguments that are fluid and increasingly contested geographically and conceptually It reflects on critical urbanism the macro and micro scale forces that shape cities including ideological demographic and technological shifts and constantly changing global and regional economic dynamics Working with southern reference points the chapters present themes in urban politics identity and environment in ways that re frame our thinking about cities The Handbook engages the twenty first century city through a southern urban lens to stimulate scholarly professional and activist engagements with the city

Living the City in Africa Brigit Obrist, Veit Arlt, Elisio Macamo, 2013 Research on cities worldwide still takes its cue from cities in Europe and the US which are seen as the standard model However cities in the global South are undergoing a much more rapid transformation including multiple interlinked transitions with Africa featuring the highest urbanization rates world wide Scholars therefore call for a new approach to urban studies which examines cities from a more global comparative perspective This book discusses the new approach which pays added attention to the role that societal creativity plays in processes of urbanization instead of concentrating exclusively on expert driven planning and intervention Especially in fast growing cities with weaker institutional capacity for interventions the interplay between intervention and invention between expert and societal agency becomes more tangible and all the more significant Series Swiss African Studies Schweizerische Afrikastudien Etudes africaines suisses Vol 10 Revolutions Paul Caringella, Glenn Hughes, 2013-02-21 Revolutions Finished and Unfinished From Primal to Final is an important philosophical contribution to the study of revolution It not only makes new contributions to the study of particular revolutions but to developing a philosophy of revolution itself Many of the contributors have been inspired by the philosophical approaches of Eric Voegelin or Eugen Rosenstock Huessy and the tension between these two social philosophies adds to the philosophical uniqueness and richness of the work Directions of Change in Rural Egypt Nicholas S.
