Heitzenrater, 2013-08-20 The practical and theological development of eighteenth century Methodism Thomas Wride and Wesley's Methodist Connexion Clive Murray Norris, 2020-02-20 This book highlights the life and writings of an itinerant preacher in John Wesley's Methodist Connexion Thomas Wride 1733 1807 Detailed studies of such rank and file preachers are rare as Methodist history has largely been written by and about its leadership However Wride's ministry shows us that the development of this worldwide movement was more complicated and uncertain than many accounts suggest Wride's attitude was distinctive He was no respecter of persons freely criticising almost everyone he came across and in doing so exposing debates and tensions within both Methodism and wider society However being so combative also led him into conflict with the very movement he sought to promote Wride is an authentic self educated and non lite voice that illuminates important features of Eighteenth Century life well beyond his religious activities He sheds light on his contemporaries attitudes to issues such as the role of women attitudes towards and the practice of medicine and the experience and interpretation of dreams and supernatural occurrences This is a detailed insight into the everyday reality of being an Eighteenth Century Methodist minister As such this text will be of interest to academics working in Methodist Studies and Religious History as well as Eighteenth Century History more generally Advice to the People Called Methodists. Mark Tunick, 1915 What actions should be punished Should plea bargaining be allowed How should sentencing be determined In this original penetrating study Mark Tunick explores not only why society punishes wrongdoing but also how it implements punishment Contending that the theory and practice of punishment are inherently linked Tunick draws on a broad range of thinkers from the radical criticisms of Nietzsche Foucault and some Marxist theorists through the sociological theories of Durkheim and Girard to various philosophical traditions and the law and economics movement He defends punishment against its radical critics and offers a version of retribution distinct from revenge that holds that we punish not to deter or reform but to mete out just deserts vindicate right and express society's righteous anger Demonstrating first how this theory best accounts for how punishment is carried out he then provides immanent criticism of certain features of our practice that don't accord with the retributive principle Thought provoking and deftly argued Punishment will garner attention and spark debate among political theorists philosophers legal scholars sociologists and criminologists What actions should be punished Should plea bargaining be allowed How should sentencing be determined In this original penetrating study Mark Tunick explores not only why society punishes wrongdoing but also how it implements punishment A
