What I Loved Siri Hustvedt, 2004 This is the story of two men who first become friends in 1970s New York of the women in their lives and of their sons born the same year Both Leo Hertzberg an art historian and Bill Weschler a painter are cultured decent men but neither is equipped to deal with what happens to their children Leo's son drowns when he's 12 while Bill's son Mark grows up to be a delinquent and the acolyte of a sinister guru like artist who spawns murder in his wake Spanning the hedonism of the eighties and the chill out nineties this multi layered novel combines a plot of mounting menace with a deeply moving account of familial relationships and a superbly observed portrait of an artist set against the backdrop of a society reaching new depths of depravity in its frenetic quest for the next fashion drug and thrill
