

The book cover features a detailed illustration in a painterly style. A central figure, a woman with a large, rounded red head, is depicted from the chest up. She has dark skin, wears sunglasses, and has a small bird perched on her head. She is dressed in a dark, patterned garment. The background is a complex, textured composition of brown and tan tones, with thin, dark, branching lines resembling roots or veins. Scattered throughout are small, vibrant red elements, possibly petals or leaves. The overall mood is surreal and artistic.

Worldling PHILIPPE. DESCOLA, 2025-10-03 The Politics of Worldling presents Philippe Descola's Tanner Lectures on Human Values delivered in 2023 at the University of California Berkeley. It offers a highly readable précis of some of the central ideas that animate Descola's work and an excellent gateway into a new vision of anthropology developed by one of its most distinguished practitioners. The lectures draw heavily on Descola's research among Achuar peoples formerly known as Jivaro of the Upper Amazon and on his erudite knowledge of the comparative literature in anthropology. He presents evidence that people in different societies construe the relation between nature and culture in fundamentally different ways according to how they view human beings versus other than human beings. Modern Euro-American naturalism holds that the laws of nature are universal and apply continuously across life forms, whereas human mental processes, self-consciousness, and inner lives are unlike and hence discontinuous with the inner lives of non-human beings. Descola critiques this schema as anachronistic and destructive in the way it has led us to construct our world. He proposes alternative ways of thinking about worlding that might lead to less destructive outcomes and provides a four-part typology of alternative relationships between the human and non-human, employing fascinating examples from the field. The commentators, political theorist Adom Getachew, environmental historian Timothy J. LeCain, and comparative archaeologist David Wengrow, respond to the lectures and emphasize the importance of history, hybridity, and the need for new multidisciplinary approaches to which Descola responds in a final chapter. Intellectually compelling, politically critical, and forward-looking, and including an introduction by the volume editor William F. Hanks, The Politics of Worldling will be valuable for scholars and students alike interested in a concise presentation of the views of one of its most visionary theorists. Flash Art, 2008 Dress Codes Vince Aletti, 2009 The International Center of Photography exhibition Dress Codes The Third ICP Triennial of Photography and Video is a global survey of contemporary photography and video art. The exhibition features over 100 recent works by 34 artists from 18 countries. The artists include Mickalene Thomas, Yto Barrada, Kimsooja, Thorsten Brinkmann, Cindy Sherman, Stan Douglas, and Lorna Simpson. Unpacking My Library Marcel Proust, 2017-01-01 A captivating tour of the bookshelves of ten leading artists exploring the intricate connections between reading, artistic practice, and identity. Taking its inspiration from Walter Benjamin's seminal 1931 essay The Unpacking My Library, the series charts a spirited exploration of the reading and book-collecting practices of today's leading thinkers. Artists and Their Books showcases the personal libraries of ten important contemporary artists based in the United States: Mark Dion, Theaster Gates, Wangechi Mutu, Ed Ruscha, and Carrie Mae Weems; Canada: Janet Cardiff and George Bures Miller; and the United Kingdom: Billy Childish, Tracey Emin, and Martin Parr. Through engaging interviews, the artists discuss the necessity of reading and the meaning of books in their lives and careers. This is a book about books, but it even more importantly highlights the role of literature in shaping an artist's self-presentation and persona. Photographs of each artist's bookshelves present an evocative glimpse of personal taste of well-loved and rare volumes and of the individual touches that make a bookshelf one's own. The interviews are accompanied by top ten reading lists assembled by each artist an introduction by Jo Steffens and Marcel Proust's seminal essay On Reading
