Chris Suh Mathew R Swiatlowski Marie Balsley Taylor Martin A Tsang Germaine Warkentin Adrian Chastain Weimer Bethany Wiggin Xine Yao Corinna Zeltsman On African Music Kofi Agawu, Victor Kofi Agawu, 2023 Written by one of the best known academic writers on African music On African Music is a collection of seven essays addressing various techniques influences and scholarly approaches to African music After a concise introduction spelling out the rationale for the book successive chapters develop answers to questions such as How does a minimalist impulse animate creativity in Africa and does Western minimalism differ from African minimalism How do we explain the prevalence of iconic effects in African expressive forms How has European tonality functioned as a colonizing force in African music Why is the written art music of the continent talked about so little when it has been in existence since the middle of the nineteenth century How might the discipline of music theory be rejuvenated by aid from Africa What are the strengths and limitations of ethnotheory as a methodology Who is who in theorizations of African rhythm and how might we explain the shape of the existing archive This book thus deals with analytical and interpretive issues the politics of scholarship and salient features of African music Laced with provocative viewpoints on each page On African Music should appeal not only to readers curious about the structural underpinnings of African music but also to those who wish to reflect critically and philosophically on how we study and write about the music of the continent how we might approach its global status with a firm understanding from the inside and what our priorities might be in promoting an empowering cosmopolitan discourse The Palgrave Handbook of African Colonial and Postcolonial History Martin S. Shanguhya, Toyin Falola, 2018-01-28 This wide ranging volume presents the most complete appraisal of modern African history to date It assembles dozens of new and established scholars to tackle the questions and subjects that define the field ranging from the economy the two world wars nationalism decolonization and postcolonial politics to religion development sexuality and the African youth experience Contributors are drawn from numerous fields in African studies including art music literature education and anthropology The themes they cover illustrate the depth of modern African history and the diversity and originality of lenses available for examining it Older themes in the field have been treated to an engaging re assessment while new and emerging themes are situated as the book's core strength The result is a comprehensive vital picture of where the field of modern African history stands today Staging Ghana Paul Schauert, 2015-09-07 The Ghana Dance Ensemble takes Ghana's national culture and interprets it in performance using authentic dance forms adapted for local or foreign audiences Often says Paul Schauert the aims of the ensemble and the aims of the individual performers work in opposition Schauert discusses the history of the dance troupe and its role in Ghana's post independence nation building strategy and illustrates how the nation's culture makes its way onto the stage He argues that as dancers negotiate the terrain of what is or is not authentic they also find ways to express their personal aspirations discovering within the framework of nationalism or collective identity that there is considerable room to reform national ideals through individual virtuosity Las apropiaciones de los repertorios guineanos en Tijuana y Guadalajara

Igaél González Sánchez, 2022-04-27 Este trabajo da cuenta de la presencia y consolidación de ensambles de danza y percusión de frica del Oeste en Guadalajara y Tijuana. Se trata de un estudio sobre las relaciones construidas en torno a la práctica de la danza y los ritmos procedentes de la región Mandinga de frica del Oeste y sobre los significados compartidos por la colectividad. Asimismo se caracterizan las redes que vinculan a alumnos y profesores provenientes de frica, la oferta de cursos, talleres y festivales. Los resultados de esta investigación permiten caracterizar la manera en la que el performance cultural del frica Mandinga fue apropiado y resignificado por percusionistas y bailarines mexicanos organizados como ensambles de danza y percusión. Public Ethnomusicology, Education, Archives, & Commerce Svanibor Pettan, Jeff

Globalization has brought traditional Ghanaian drum dances to world stages, particularly in institutions of higher education in America. Ethnomusicologists utilize interdisciplinary techniques to trace a music culture's continuation and change. This study compares the transmission process in the cultural context and the instruction of Ghanaian repertoire among African ensembles in American college and universities. The original hypothesis contends that the pedagogy in university African ensembles would be profoundly different from that of the authentic Ghanaian perspective, thereby reinforcing a divergence in music cognition between learners in the two cultures. Part I: Introduction establishes the parameters of the research and provides a brief description of the Ghanaian musical context. The Research Design section provides an explanation of the participant-observer research methodology during my fieldwork in Ghana and the United States, as well as a briefing on the comparative method used between the two cultures. Insight into teaching perspectives and student cognition that resulted from the variables of different pedagogical techniques was gained through observing of multiple university African ensembles in rehearsal and performance Interviews were conducted and questionnaires were collected for hard data Features of the music culture vital to the socialization method and music cognition are addressed with particular attention given to the intersubjective collectiveness found in nearly every facet of West African life and the emic musical concepts of melorhythm and Ensemble Thematic Cycle E T C The bulk of the fieldwork is presented in Part 2 Teaching Techniques and Learning Processes The first section surveys the teaching and learning perspectives of the traditional socialization methods of the Ghanaian people The oral method and informal style are clarified and further non written methods and instances of formality found in certain Ghanaian contexts are explained The second section covers teaching and learning as it occurs in the ensembles found in American colleges and universities Large repertoires of teaching strategies encompassing oral visual and kinesthetic methods were witnessed from different demographics of instructors Ghanaian American and other African origins The cognition of the students participating in the ensembles were equally as diverse but commonalities in their learning process were apparent University African ensembles that perform Ghanaian drum dances differ significantly based on the institution department community and instructor They operate under the format of a performance ensemble study group or a division of the percussion ensemble Based on the evidence found the course objectives and goals were found to be a main determinant of pedagogy and style This conclusion diverges significantly from the classification system commonly applied in our field which views an instructor s ethnicity and musical background as the major influences When building their pedagogical strategies it was clear that instructors consider their own experience as well as the objective of their ensemble The research also brought information regarding student learning and music cognition to the forefront There are many factors that go into a participant s experience and therefore his or her cognition of the foreign musical system A major influence towards an emic and etic perspective may be a result of the differing function that the music culture has in the two societies while the emic function seeks to maintain social values the etic function may be to construct an appreciation of another cultures non music students to introduce a different music perspective music students or to develop hand drumming skills percussionists A connection between instruction and learning is made as pedagogy found within university ensembles across the country is unsystematic and inconsistent Some pedagogical techniques appeared to encourage emic perspectives such as melorhythm Ensemble Thematic Cycle E T C and the significance of singing and dancing On the other hand some techniques reinforced students etic Western perspectives such as a visual approach Western soloing and establishing external points of reference
