Werken Aan Zekerheid Terugblik Aegon Op 2 Eeuwen Verzekeringsgeschiedenis:

Two Centuries of Solidarity K.P. Companje, R.H.M. Hendriks, K.F.E. Veraghtert, B.E.M. Widdershoven, 2025-10-01 Today health insurance is a key component in the system of social security in most European Union countries. In many of these countries, modern health insurance funds and healthcare insurers play an essential role in implementing the public health insurance system. Many of these health insurance funds have a long and fascinating history of which clear traces can be seen today in the organisation and structure of health insurance as well as health insurance funds and insurers. In Two Centuries of Solidarity, the authors compare the systems of health insurance, health insurance funds and healthcare insurers in Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands. Given the similar political, economic and social development that these countries have undergone in the past 60 years and the availability of a qualitatively high level of health care, one might expect a high degree of similarity between these countries' healthcare insurance systems. However, the dissimilarities are surprising. In fact, these differences are currently becoming ever more apparent between systems in general and the structure and operation of the health insurance funds and health care insurers in particular. The differences include the compulsory nature of insurance, the extent of coverage, premiums, entrepreneurship, competition and the degree of private insurance. Many of these national singularities can be understood and explained only by considering the historical background of the health insurance systems, the insurers and their evolution over the past two centuries. This study adopts an institutional and political perspective towards a further understanding of the development of health insurance and of how this ultimately determined the specific nature of the healthcare insurers and funds and the way they currently operate in Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands.

Tales of Electrologica Gerard Alberts, Jan Friso Groote, 2023-01-04 Manufacturing computers in series was quite a feat in the 1950s. As mathematical as it gets, the machines discussed here were called X1 and X8. The industrial achievement combined with the background in a mathematical research center made the company Electrologica a legend in Dutch computing. The tales in this book are told by those who have a right to tell. Highly engaged professionals take readers back to their pioneering work with the machines and in retrospect unveil some of the values which went without saying in the 1960s. To disagree, Paul Klint relates the contrasting views on software in Dutch research traditions. ALGOL culture. Frans Kruseman Aretz takes the reader along to the detailed decisions on constructing compilers and shows the values of an ALGOL culture transpiring. Signposts. Dirk Dekker for the first time owns his algorithm for mutual exclusion. In particle physics, Ren van Dantzig's use case was an Electrologica X8 computer controlling two other computers in three-dimensional detection of colliding particles. Early steps in AI. Lambert Meertens' tale of the X8 machine composing a violin quartet comes with his original presentation as well as the code in ALGOL 60. The reflections of first-hand experiences combine well with the second thoughts of historical research into archival sources. Historians Huub de Beer and Gerard Alberts offer a view into the boardrooms of the local enterprise Electrologica and of the electronics multinational Philips. Where pioneers and historians meet in an inspiring dialogue the reader gains a view on the often implicit decisions constituting the field. Fortuitously a copy of the X8 was retrieved from Kiel Germany and put on display at Rijksmuseum Boerhaave Leiden. Sparked by the very material presence of an X8 the present book takes stock of the state of historiography of Electrológica. Gerard Alberts is an associate professor in History of Digital Cultures, retired from the University of Amsterdam. Jan Friso Groote is a full professor of Formal Methods at the Eindhoven University of Technology. Bibliographic Guide to Business and Economics New York Public Library.
