K. Trochim, Melvin M. Mark, Leslie J. Cooksy, 2009-10-19 This issue of New Directions for Evaluation addresses the topic of evaluation policy especially how it is informed by and affects evaluation practice An evaluation policy is any rule or principle that a group or organization uses to guide its decisions and actions when doing evaluation Every group and organization that engages in evaluation including government agencies private businesses and nonprofit organizations has evaluation policies Sometimes they are formal explicit and written at other times they are more implicit and ad hoc principles or norms that have simply evolved over time Evaluation policy is a critically important issue for the field and profession of evaluation Evaluation policies profoundly affect the day to day work of all evaluators Many recent and current controversies or conflicts in the field of evaluation can be viewed at least in part as struggles around evaluation policy The chapters in this issue consider evaluation policy in its many and varied settings and contexts including extensive treatment of large scale national evaluation policy both in the United States and in Europe The issue brings together revised and extended versions of all of the key addresses in the presidential strand of the 2008 American Evaluation Association conference including the presidential address plenary speeches and expert lectures This is the 123rd volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly thematic journal New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association The journal publishes empirical methodological and theoretical works on all aspects of evaluation Each issue is devoted to a single topic with contributions solicited organized reviewed and edited by a guest editor or editors Issues may take any of several forms such as a series of related chapters a debate or a long article followed by brief critical commentaries Consequences of No Child Left Behind on Educational Evaluation Tiffany Berry, Rebecca M. Eddy, 2008-04-04 This volume explores how key aspects of No Child Left Behind NCLB have transformed the landscape of educational evaluation and ultimately how this process is redefining what evaluation is within the educational evaluation community In their chapters the authors examine case studies critical commentaries and technical information related to the nexus between evaluation and NCLB The volume is intended to stimulate conversation around fundamental issues in the discipline of evaluation including blurring the lines among research evaluation and assessment prioritizing summative evaluations over formative using questions to drive research design rather than the reverse balancing accountability requirements with other stakeholder needs exploring the role of evaluation capacity building in an institutional setting understanding the availability and appropriate use of assessment data and defining learning outcomes that are based on standardized test scores alone Evaluative activities have become integrated into the fabric of NCLB primarily through two core aspects of the legislation responding to accountability systems and implementing scientifically based research One plausible consequence of this close integration is that the purpose design and practice of evaluation may actually be transformed by this legislation This volume describes these transformative influences and then explores the potential consequences This is the 117th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association
