What Is World Literature Translationtransnation:

What Is World Literature? David Damrosch, 2018-06-05 World literature was long defined in North America as an established canon of European masterpieces but an emerging global perspective has challenged both this European focus and the very category of the masterpiece The first book to look broadly at the contemporary scope and purposes of world literature What Is World Literature probes the uses and abuses of world literature in a rapidly changing world In case studies ranging from the Sumerians to the Aztecs and from medieval mysticism to postmodern metafiction David Damrosch looks at the ways works change as they move from national to global contexts Presenting world literature not as a canon of texts but as a mode of circulation and of reading Damrosch argues that world literature is work that gains in translation When it is effectively presented a work of world literature moves into an elliptical space created between the source and receiving cultures shaped by both but circumscribed by neither alone Established classics and new discoveries alike participate in this mode of circulation but they can be seriously mishandled in the process From the rediscovered Epic of Gilgamesh in the nineteenth century to Rigoberta Mench's writing today foreign works have often been distorted by the immediate needs of their own editors and translators Eloquently written argued largely by example and replete with insightful close readings this book is both an essay in definition and a series of cautionary tales

World Literature, Transnational Cinema, and Global Media Robert Stam, 2019-02-18 With extraordinary transnational and transdisciplinary range World Literature Transnational Cinema and Global Media comprehensively explores the genealogies vocabularies and concepts orienting the fields within literature cinema and media studies Orchestrating a layered conversation between arts disciplines and media Stam argues for their mutual embeddedness and their shared in between territories Rather than merely adding to the existing scholarship the book builds a relational framework through the connectivities within literature cinema music and media that opens up analysis to new categories and concepts while crossing spatial temporal theoretical disciplinary and mediatic borders The book also questions an array of hierarchies literature over cinema source novel over adaptation feature film over documentary erudite over vernacular culture Western modernisms over peripheral modernisms classical over popular music written poetry over sung poetry and so forth The book is structured around the concept of the commons forming a strong thread which links various struggles against enclosures of all kinds with emphasis on natural indigenous cultural creative digital and the transdisciplinary commons World Literature Transnational Cinema and Global Media is ideal to further the theoretical discussion for those undergraduate and graduate departments in cinema studies media studies arts and art history communications journalism and new digital media programs at all levels book CONCLUSION World enough and time The Transnational in Literary Studies Kai Wiegandt, 2020-07-06 This volume clarifies the meanings and applications of the concept of the transnational and identifies areas in which the concept can be particularly useful The division of the volume into three parts reflects areas which seem particularly amenable to analysis through a transnational lens The chapters in Part 1 present case studies in which the concept replaces or complements traditionally dominant concepts in literary studies These chapters demonstrate for example why some dramatic texts and performances can better be described as transnational than as postcolonial and how the transnational underlies and complements concepts such as world literature Part 2 assesses the advantages and limitations of writing literary history with a transnational focus These chapters illustrate how such a perspective loosens the epistemic stranglehold of national historiographies but they also argue that the transnational and national agendas of literary historiography are frequently entangled The chapters in Part 3 identify transnational genres such as the transnational historical novel transnational migrant fiction and translinguistic theatre and analyse the specific poetics and politics of these genres Mexican Literature as World Literature Ignacio M. Sánchez Prado, 2021-09-09 Honorable Mention from the 2022 International Latino Book Awards for Best Nonfiction Multi Author Chapter 15 by Carolyn Fornoff is Winner of the 2022 Best Article in the Humanities Award Latin American Studies Association Mexico Mexican Literature as World Literature is a landmark collection that for the first time studies the major interventions of Mexican literature of all genres in world literary circuits from the 16th century forward This collection features a range of essays in dialogue with major theorists and critics of the concept of world literature Authors show how the arrival of Spanish conquerors and priests the work of enlightenment naturalists the rise of Mexican academies the culture of the Mexican Revolution and Mexican neoliberalism have played major roles in the formation of world literary structures The book features major scholars in Mexican literary studies engaging in the ways in which modernism counterculture and extinction have been essential to Mexico's world literary pursuit as well as studies of the work of some of Mexico's most important authors Sor Juana Carlos Fuentes Octavio Paz and Juan Rulfo among others These essays expand and enrich the understanding of Mexican literature as world literature showing the many significant ways in which Mexico has been a center for world literary circuits Contested Identities Roger Nicholson, Gertrud Szamosi, Claudia Marquis, 2015-09-04 This volume brings together essays that individually and collectively address the force of the literary text with regard to problematic identities They work out of shared concerns with literary representations of this issue in different regions nations and communities that often prove divided they pursue questions related to textual identity where the literary text itself is contested internally or in its generic and historical relations In sum these studies actively test identity as social or literary concept discovering in difference the very condition of a useful if paradoxical sense of personal or textual coherence What happens to us when we move between different cultures or different societies defined in geographical or historical terms What happens to texts and textual practices in these same circumstances What happens to us when we are obliged to adapt to a new social order Homi Bhabha speaks of cultural difference as calling into play what he calls cultural translation What happens to identity the narrative that fashions a continued sense of self in this case Difference raised to alterity demands that we accord functional and philosophical value not just to other aspects but also to the aspect of the other At the level of personal or textual agency however difference contests and threatens to subvert stable selfhood composing a scene of conflict Even so it often proves to be instrumental in recharging a sense of the cultural valence of the literary text not least by virtue of its political implications In this regard the border where difference materialises has considerable presence in contributions to this volume prompting appreciation of texts that work on or travel across such borders however haphazardly and dangerously but also those that compose border textualities

The Organization of Distance Lucas Klein, 2018-07-17 What makes a Chinese poem Chinese Some call modern Chinese poetry insufficiently Chinese saying it is so influenced by foreign texts that it has lost the essence of Chinese culture as known in premodern poetry Yet that argument overlooks how premodern regulated verse was itself created in imitation of foreign poetics Looking at Bian Zhilin and Yang Lian in the twentieth century alongside medieval Chinese poets such as Wang Wei Du Fu and Li Shangyin The Organization of Distance applies the notions of foreignization and nativization to Chinese poetry to argue that the impression of poetic Chineseness has long been a product of translation from forces both abroad and in the past

From Internationalism to Postcolonialism Rossen Djagalov, 2020-03-19 Would there have been a Third World without the Second Perhaps but it would have looked very different Although most histories of these geopolitical blocs and their constituent societies and cultures are written in reference to the West the interdependence of the Second and Third Worlds is evident not only from a common nomenclature but also from their near simultaneous disappearance around 1990 From Internationalism to Postcolonialism addresses this historical blind spot by recounting the story of two Cold War era cultural formations that claimed to represent the Third World project in literature and cinema the Afro Asian Writers Association 1958 1991 and the Tashkent Festival for African Asian and Latin American Film 1968 1988 The inclusion of writers and filmmakers from the Soviet Caucasus and Central Asia and extensive Soviet support aligned these organizations with Soviet internationalism While these cultural alliances between the Second and the Third World never achieved their stated aim the literary and cinematic independence of the literatures and cinemas of these societies from the West they did forge what Ngugi wa Thiong'o called the links that bind us along which now canonical postcolonial authors texts and films could circulate across the non Western world until the end of the Cold War In the process of this historical reconstruction From Internationalism to Postcolonialism inverts the traditional relationship between Soviet and postcolonial studies rather than studying the post Soviet experience through the lens of postcolonial theory it documents the multiple ways in which that theory and its attendant literary and cinematic production have been shaped by the Soviet experience
